COL. PECK PAYS FOR HIS DARING

Intrepid Young Aviator, Who Gave Brilliant Exhibition Here August 1, Crushed By Biplane.

IT FALLS ON CHICAGO FIELD

Daring Birdman Refuses Counsel of Wiser Men and Soars in Air For Last Time.

Unfearful of danger and not heeding the warnings given him, Col. Paul Peck, the aviator who made two brilliant flights here Wednesday, August first, yesterday afternoon late was caught by a strong gust of wind while sailing over Cicero field at Chicago at an altitude of two hundred feet, and he and his biplane were hurled to the ground. The brilliant young birdman was so horribly crushed that he died at 12:50 this morning about seven hours after the accident, in a Chicago hospital.

He was descending from his last contemplated flight of the day in the biplane which he personally developed, and which was expected to perform wonders in the aviation meet beginning today.

Twice during the afternoon he had made brilliant flights. On his last flight he had ascended to a height of about 900 feet and with the eyes of 1,000 spectators fixed upon him began his descent.

He descended in long, sweeping spirals until he was scarcely 200 feet from the ground. Suddenly something went wrong, and from the long, birdlike swoop the biplane suddenly swerved, quivered and then tipped sharply downward.

Peck struggled with his controls, and for an instant appeared to have regained the mastery of the air, but an instant later the machine dipped, and as the spectators groaned in horror, biplane and aviator dropped like a plummet.

With a crash that resounded all over the field the machine struck the ground, alighting head on. Peck was pinned under the wreckage with the heavy engine resting partly on his chest and neck. The wreckage was immediately cleared and Peck was rushed to the hospital in an automobile. He was unconscious and bleeding from a score of cuts made by the guys and splintered supports of his biplane.

Thousands of Rushville and Rush county will remember the thrilling exhibition of the mastery of the air by Col. Peck here the first day of last month. Throngs of people waited the whole afternoon patiently for Col. Peck to fly here from Connersville, where he was to give a flight the same afternoon. He finally arrived about six o'clock in the evening, but not until a good many had wended their way homeward, disappointed.

Those who waited were amply rewarded. In order to comply with his contract, although darkness was fast approaching, Col. Peck made two beautiful flights, exhibiting his marvelous control of the aircraft. He swerved the biplane about in the air, and it soared and dipped and raised like a bird on the wing.

Col. Peck was a very affable young man. He was quiet and unassuming, but was willing to talk of his work and ambitions when questioned. To newspaper men he told his plans for the winter which he intended to spend in the far west or the south. While here he anticipated the meet at Chicago.

KOKOMO CROWD IS GOING

To Hear James E. Watson at Tipton County Seat Friday.

James E. Watson, former whip of the House, one of the most prominent men at the Republican convention, a statesman and an orator, will address the people of Tipton county and central Indiana at the Martz theater at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, September 13, says the Kokomo Tribune. There is no man in America better qualified to talk on national topics. Mr. Watson is a brilliant orator, a man who thoroughly knows his subject and many people from this county will hear his address.

SLIGHT DECREASE IN ENROLLMENT

WHOOPING COUGH, THE CAUSE

The total enrollment of the Rushville public school is eight hundred and forty-five, a slight decrease as compared with the enrollment the first week last year. Of this total, a hundred and seventy-seven are enrolled in the high school and six hundred and sixty-eight in the grades. There are a few more high school pupils than there were the first week last year, this despite the fact that a number of high school students did not return this year.

The grade enrollment is expected to increase during the first month of school so that the total will be equal to if not greater than the first day enrollment last year. The decrease is due, school authorities believe, to the prevalence of whooping cough. Many pupils were kept away because school officials announced that none with the disease would be admitted. This was done to prevent an epidemic.

The heat has worked a hardship on the pupils this week, especially on those in the grades, and for this reason those in the grades have been dismissed every afternoon at two-thirty o'clock.

SAID TO HAVE TOTTED DYNAMITE ON CAR

Unknown Man Fails to Show up When I. & C. Crew Learns He Has Been Carrying Explosive.

IS HEAVY PENALTY FOR THIS

If all reports be true an unknown man has been hauling dynamite on the 4:42 east bound I. & C. interurban car out of here to stop thirty-two, where he always got off every day for more than a week. The report could neither be denied or affirmed today as all of the traction officials were out of the city. It is said as soon as the crew learned what the man carried, which was yesterday afternoon, they watched for him to board the car, but he did not put in his appearance as usual.

The crew became suspicious of him when he got on the same car here every evening and got off at the same place, always with the same kind of a bundle. It is said he had the explosive packed in ice. There is a heavy penalty attached to carrying explosives on common carriers. The I. & C. will not carry any kind of an explosive, either by freight or by express.

PERRY M'CRORY DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Farmer Succumbs From Heart Attack While Enroute Home From This City.

ALLS FROM SPRING WAGON

S. Morford and Raymond Nesbit Reach Him Too Late—Funeral Friday Afternoon.

Perry McCrory, 69 years old, a well known farmer living south of Grifins, died suddenly from an attack of the heart yesterday afternoon about five o'clock while enroute home from this city. Mr. McCrory was riding in a spring wagon and fell to the ground when stricken.

F. S. Morford and Raymond Nesbit were in a buggy behind Mr. McCrory and saw him fall. They rushed to his side but he was dead before they reached him. Mr. McCrory had been in attendance at the Coleman sale and appeared to be in the usual health. He had reached the George Looney farm east of the city on his way home when stricken.

Coroner Shauck pronounced death due to heart trouble. Mr. McCrory while seemingly in the best of health was known to have been subject to heart attacks. His sudden death came as a great shock to his friends in this city and county.

Mr. McCrory was a native of Fayette county, being born there June 23, 1853. His father, William McCrory was a native of Ireland. He had been a resident of this county for many years. Mr. McCrory leaves a widow and three children, Fred, Ernest, and Mrs. Jesse Ridout.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at the late residence. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

WARNING AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Dr. J. N. Hurty Urges Prevention of Disease Which Will Take Large Toll This Fall.

AYS IT WILL BE FATAL TO 500

That at least 500 persons will die from typhoid fever in Indiana between now and December 31 is the rather startling prediction made by Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner. Mr. Hurty regards the typhoid fever situation so seriously that he has mailed a special bulletin to the subject to every quarter of the state, warning people to take precaution against insanitary conditions and the deadly fly. The estimate of the number of deaths which will occur during the remainder of the year is based on statistics compiled by the state health board. According to the estimate 125 deaths from typhoid will occur in the present month, 175 in October, 125 in November and 75 in December.

Already the health board has received reports showing that 125 deaths from typhoid occurred in the state in August. The state health board also publishes a special typhoid fever circular which will be sent free to any one who asks for it. The circular explains methods of preventing the approach of the disease.

DEATH IS RESULT OF AUTO MISHAP

C. H. Campbell of Shelbyville, Close Friend of James E. Watson and Other Local Men, Expires.

HURT IN INDIANAPOLIS SAT.

Pneumonia Develops and Causes His Demise—Prominent in Sixth District Politics.

The numerous friends here of Charles H. Campbell of Shelbyville, a manufacturer of furniture and well known in the politics of this district, were shocked to hear of his death in the Methodist hospital in Indianapolis, where he was taken after he was hurt in an automobile accident at the outskirts of Indianapolis Saturday night. Pneumonia developed from his injuries and caused his demise. James E. Watson was probably the most intimate friend Charles Campbell had. A telegram was sent to the home of Mr. Watson here last evening immediately after the death of the Shelbyville man, but Mr. Watson did not yet arrive from New York City, where he had been the last week, nor did he arrive today so that an expression of his regret could not be had.

Mr. Campbell was a great admirer of the former congressman. He was a sincere believer in Mr. Watson's ability and aided him in any political aspirations he ever had, notable among the number being Mr. Watson's race for the nomination and election for governor in 1908. Although Mr. Campbell had Bull Moose inclinations in the last few months, he had often told the Rushville statesman, in the presence of others, that he would support him for any office from the presidency down.

Mr. Campbell was prominent as one of the Indiana leaders in the movement for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency at the Republican national convention. When Indiana Roosevelt headquarters were opened in Indianapolis before the convention Mr. Campbell was put in charge of them, and worked hard for Mr. Roosevelt's success.

After the nomination of President Taft by the Republicans, Mr. Campbell said that he did not believe in the third party movement, but would vote for Mr. Roosevelt. After the organization of the Bull Moose party he did not take as prominent a part in the State work for Mr. Roosevelt as he had done before.

His death has caused expressions of regret from Albert J. Beveridge and other Bull Moose leaders and also prominent Republicans with whom he was formerly associated.

The automobile accident which resulted in Mr. Campbell's death occurred last Saturday night, following the Beveridge meeting in Indianapolis. Mr. Campbell, William H. Smith, Fred Buggie and Harry Antie of Shelbyville and Carl Mote of Indianapolis were in the machine enroute for Shelbyville.

When crossing the Big Four railroad crossing, the chauffeur failed to hear an approaching locomotive which struck the machine and threw out the occupants. All were injured, but Mr. Campbell was the only one taken to the hospital. One of his legs was badly mangled and the bone in his other was fractured.

Mr. Campbell was fifty-nine years old and was born in Lexington, Ind. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell, natives of Virginia. As he grew up he worked for a while with his father at the cabinet maker's trade, but gave this up to enter the employment of the Big Four Railway Company, serving Continued on Page 8.

SUIT CASE IS STOLEN

Miss Olive Traylor Leaves it in Front of I. & C. Station

Miss Olive Traylor, a teacher in the Connersville high school and formerly a high school instructor here, set a suit case down on the sidewalk in front of the I. & C. traction station one day recently while she bought a ticket to Connersville, and returned to find that it had been stolen. The loss is said to be small but the suit case contained several articles of value to Miss Traylor, including a good student's lamp. She has never found any trace of the grip. The theft was not reported to the police.

HERE TO INSPECT SIGNAL SYSTEMS

Joe R. Ong, Formerly of Rushville, is Employed by Wisconsin State Railway Commission.

GOES WITH PARTY OVER I. & C.

Joe R. Ong of Madison, Wisconsin, formerly of this city, where he was graduated from the high school, is here on a brief visit while in Indiana inspecting interurban signal systems in the interest of the Wisconsin railway commission by which he is employed. Yesterday Mr. Ong was with a party of men composed of representatives of electric railway magazines and others interested in electric railway matters, headed by Charles L. Henry, president of the Indiana & Cincinnati Traction company, which inspected the Simmen system which is installed between the junction and Fairland on the Shelbyville division of the I. & C.

Mr. Ong says that his principal duties are inspecting the street car and interurban systems of Wisconsin where the State law compels the electric railways to have an adequate supply of cars to take care of the traffic and freight business.

HEAT HAS BEEN FATAL TO HORSES

Fifty Animals Have Succumbed During Period of High Temperature—Flies Abetted.

COOL WAVE RELIEF TO OWNERS

Probably no people are any more thankful for the drop in temperature than are the owners of horses in this city and county. The protracted heat wave has been very hard on this class of domestic animals, and has resulted in the death of a number in the county. It is said that no less than fifty have dropped dead from the heat in the last two weeks. This is according to a report from the veterinary southwest of the city.

The flies have aided in making the hot weather obnoxious and fatal to many beasts of burden. The kind of flies which are worrying the horses now are said to be the very worst kind. They set the animal wild, and in many instances, in an effort to knock the flies off, the horses have overexerted themselves and have been overcome with the heat.

Had the heat continued, it was barely possible that many farmers would have worked at night as soon as the new moon appears. In this way they could do away with the heat of the sun's rays and the flies as well.

IS WELL FITTED FOR HER TASK

Miss Parshall, Worker Among Women and Girls, Will be Here With Dr. Biederwolf.

DURING THE COMING REVIVAL

Story of Her Life Work Indicates She Has Training Necessary—Pleasing Personality.

Very few women are better fitted for their work than Miss Parshall, who is Dr. Biederwolf's assistant, in the work among women and girls, and who will assist him here during the county wide evangelistic campaign which begins Sunday, September 22. Not only training is necessary, but a particular personality as well.

She was born in Corry, Penn., but her early girlhood has been in Tidoute, Penn. Her early plans and ideals were for a life devoted to music, for she had exceptional musical ability. With this thought in view, after considerable post-graduate work in the high school, she spent two years in Boston, the seat of musical learning in our country, studying pipe organ and piano. During this time she served in some of the leading churches around Boston. All the time she could possibly spare from her musical duties she spent in actual Christian service, both in her local church and in county and Presbyterian Sunday school and young people's work.

Successful as she was in her musical work, the time came when she felt impelled to give up the profession

of music and devote her time entirely to work for Christ. To prepare for efficient service, Miss Parshall entered the Moody Bible Institute, at Northfield, Mass. After some months spent there, she accepted a position as pastor's assistant in the First Presbyterian church at Bradford, Penn., remaining there one year.

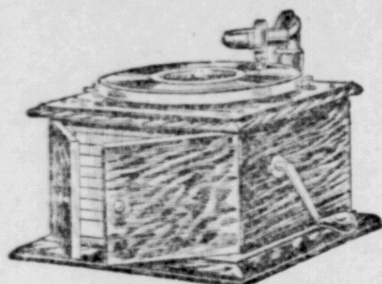

Dr. Biederwolf met Miss Parshall during one of his meetings in Hutchinson, Kan., where she was assistant to the Rev. Hugh T. Kerr, pastor of one of the strongest Presbyterian churches in the State.

After three years of hard work in this church, Miss Parshall went to Chicago to pursue special Bible and doctrinal studies in the Moody Institute, and to do practical Christian work in the hospitals, factories, jails, and rescue homes for girls, fitting herself for greater service in leading men and women to Jesus Christ.

Dr. Biederwolf happened to be holding meeting in the Moody church where he met Miss Parshall again; he immediately engaged her as one of his assistants in his meetings.

In Piqua Miss Parshall has been holding meetings in the shops and factories during the noon hour. She has interested the girls from the high school in weekly meetings and is responsible for the increased Christian activity of many of the young women Continued on Page 8.

GEORGIA COMMUNITY IN STATE OF TERROR

Every White Man In Cumming
Is Under Arms.

Cumming, Ga., Sept. 12.—Cumming
and vicinity are in a state of terror
over fears of a negro rising. Following the lynching of Ed Collins for alleged complicity in the assault and murder of Miss Alma Crow, there were threats that the negroes would burn
the town. These threats alarmed the whites and the alarm was increased when two buildings were discovered on fire. The whites are confident the buildings were fired by negroes. Reports that the negroes were arming several miles south of Cumming for an attack on the place increased the anxiety and resulted in a sort of martial law being proclaimed.

Every white man in town is under arms and pickets are stationed on every road leading into town. Troops are held in readiness at Marietta and Gainesville to be rushed here at the first sign of trouble.

The negroes especially resent the lynching of eighteen-year-old Ed Collins, who they say knew nothing of the outrage and murder of Miss Crow.
Ernest Cox, who confessed the crime,
has been taken to Atlanta, where the eight negroes concerned in the assault on Mrs. Wesley Hedges, the wife of a planter, were also taken for safe keeping.

C. A. R. Veterans March.

Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—Twelve thousand veterans marched here in the annual parade of the national G. A. R. encampment. It required more than three hours for the procession to pass and 200,000 spectators lined the curb or were massed on buildings and reviewing stands.

An Unprecedented Cereal Crop.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The cereal crops of the country from present indications will reach the unprecedented
total production of 133,916,000 tons, according to Victor H. Olmsted, chief of the department of agriculture's bureau of statistics.

A NEW FEATURE OF SZABO CASE

Evidence of Jiu Jitsu Disclosed
at Inquest.

FIRST HAND CASE OF MURDER

Testimony of Coroner's Physician as to Means by Which Mrs. Szabo Was Rendered Helpless Before Her Body
Went Into Waters of Greenwood
Lake Convinced Court That There Is a Strong Case Against Lawyer.

New York, Sept. 12.—Only after District Attorney Rogers had laid a strong first-hand case of murder before him,
did County Judge Royce of Middletown issue the warrant charging Burton W.
Gibson with the murder of Mrs.
Rose Menschik Szabo. Dr. Otto
H. Schultze, coroner's physician of Manhattan, who assisted at the autopsy, swore before the court that Mrs.
Szabo died by asphyxiation by strangulation and not by asphyxiation by submersion, which would have been the case if she had been drowned when she fell out of the boat on Greenwood lake, July 16. In other words, the physician, who has conducted many autopsies, swore that Mrs. Szabo was so injured before she went into the water on that day, that she never breathed after she had sunk below the surface of the water. The testimony of the surgeon injected into the case
a new feature of murder, which combines the Japanese jiu jitsu with an expert knowledge of anatomy and physiology.

According to the surgeon, before Mrs. Szabo went out of the boat on that day, she received a sharp blow on the throat which so affected the laryngal nerve as to close her air passages, making it impossible for her to breathe. The fact that she had never drawn breath after she was struck was shown by the fact that although she was in the water, there was not a single sign of water in her lungs. She stopped breathing before she fell and died in consequence.

In his further testimony Dr. Schultze testified that the blow which was delivered at the apex of the throat, just under the chin, might have been a single sharp application of the thumb
by a man who knew absolutely what he was doing, or it could have been done by the use of several fingers of the hand applied for an instant. Expert knowledge was the only thing necessary. Once the pressure was properly applied there was no further work to be done. The woman would go overboard, sink without a struggle and die without ever taking a breath.

To Prove Will's Forgery.

Vienna, Sept. 12.—Franz Menschik, one of the brothers of Mrs. Szabo, who was drowned in Greenwood lake, New Jersey, last July, is rushing to New York for the purpose of giving evidence in the case. He will testify that he was present at the death at Rudolfsheim, on Feb. 9, 1910, of his mother, Petronella Menschik, who, he says, was never in Chicago. This it is expected will prove that the will Lawyer Gibson produced is a forgery.

WILL PROBABLY DIE

White Wife of Jack Johnson Shoots Herself in the Head.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Etta Johnson, white wife of Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, attempted to commit suicide last night by shooting herself in the head with a revolver. The woman was alone in the apartments over Johnson's cafe when she tried to end her life. She was taken to the Provident hospital, where it was announced that the wound probably would cause her death.

Johnson was in the cafe below talking to several friends when a pistol shot was heard. He ran upstairs and found his wife lying on the floor of her bedroom. Blood was streaming from a bullet wound in her head and she was unconscious. Except for an attack of nervousness Johnson was unable to assign any motive for his wife's attempt to end her life. "There was no trouble between us," Johnson told the police. Mrs. Johnson was formerly the wife of Herman Duryea, racing man, and in her youthful days
was noted for her beauty.

at his home south of the city by hanging himself. He left a note saying he had killed himself because he could not keep from worrying over the loss of one of his legs, which was injured
so badly last year that it was necessary to amputate.

SUFFRAGISTS ASSAIL BRITISH MINISTERS

Asquith and McKenna Lose Interest In Golf Game.

Glasgow, Sept. 12.—Mary Howie
and Mrs. Mitchell, the two suffragettes who pestered Winston Churchill at Aberdeen last week, cornered Premier Asquith and Home Secretary McKenna
while they were golfing at Dornoch.
The women rushed up and began berating the prime minister for the treatment of two suffragettes who were sentenced to five years' penal servitude
by a Dublin court for attempting to burn the Theater Royal at that place.

Mr. McKenna is reported to have seized Miss Howie and a struggle fol-
to harangue Mr. Asquith. The detective who accompanies the prime minister and is responsible for his safety rushed to the scene and seized Mrs.
Mitchell and Mr. McKenna handed over Miss Howie to his care. The efforts of the officer to hold both women were fruitless. First one and then the other shook herself free and continued railing at the ministers. It is stated that Mr. Asquith appealed to some caddies standing by to help the detective, but they did not respond.
Premier Asquith then told the detective to secure Miss Howie, as she was worse than the other woman, and then walked away, accompanied by Mr. Mc-Kenna. Mrs. Mitchell followed on their heels and kept up her abuse of the two ministers until a policeman arrived and led her off.

Ten Minutes After Passengers Got Off, Steamer Sank.

New York, Sept. 12.—The steamship Perseus of the Iron Steamboat company struck a rock last night while returning from Donnelly's College Point Grove and stove a hole in her side, far beneath the water line.

On board she had about 1,700 members of the Hudson County Democracy of Jersey City. The vessel put back to shore while the club members busied themselves putting on life preservers.

Ten minutes after the passengers had left the boat she sank alongside of the College Point dock.

NEGRO RESENTS THE COLOR LINE

Barred From Whites' Water Cooler He Shoots.

RAGE TRAGEDY AT PRINCETON

In the Roundhouse There Separate Water Coolers Had Been Provided
For White and Colored Employees
—Walter Lively, a Young Colored Man, Ordered to Keep Away From White Men's Tank, Shoots Foreman.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 12.—Walter Lively, aged twenty, colored, shot and probably fatally wounded Jesse Coleman, aged twenty-five, white, at the Southern railroad roundhouse here.
The negro was captured at Hunting-burg and brought back. There are separate water coolers for the white and colored employees at the roundhouse. Lively had been using the tank for whites and had been warned several times. He was ordered to use the other tank, and after some words quit work. He went to his home at Patoka, four miles away, got his revolver, returned to the shops and, after exchanging a word or two with Coleman, a foreman, fired twice. The first bullet struck Coleman in the shoulder
and the second in the back.

GOT AWAY AGAIN

Young Forger, Wanted at Frankfort, Eludes Louisville Police.

Frankfort, Ind., Sept. 12.—Beyond doubt it has been proved that the young man who tried to forge checks on a Louisville bank and who was caught, but later jumped his bond, is no other than Orvil Hodson, the young man wanted in this city for collecting $3,500 on Aug. 12, on forged checks on the First National and American National banks, and also wanted in Indianapolis. Since Hodson has been at large captives have been offered for his capture, still he has so far successfully escaped all officers. He appeared at a bank in Louisville and attempted to use the same name and amounts that he used in this city. He was caught after a short chase, but when taken to police headquarters was released on a cash bond of $300.
He failed to appear at the trial and is again on his way to freedom.

The bank officials in this city are not slow in criticizing the authorities at Louisville for their bad work in handling Hodson. Since his work here pictures and descriptions of Hodson have been sent over the country. Pinkerton detectives, Burns detectives and the bank associations of the country have offered rewards for his capture.
A representative of one of the banks
that suffered at the hands of Hodson stated that there was evidence of crooked work in regard to the escaping of Hodson all the time and action would be taken soon along that line.

EXTORTION CHARGED

The Latest Phase of Miss Brooks's Fight at West Hammond.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 12.—As a result of Miss Virginia Brooks's charges that in West Hammond vice has been allowed to flourish, that offenders have been freed by the authorities, and that men have met mysterious deaths in resorts there, charges of malfeasance
in office, extortion and conspiracy have been filed against Justice Frank Green of West Hammond, and Justice Wittenburg of Burnham, a nearby village.
An additional charge of embezzlement has been placed against Green for his alleged failure to turn over to the public $163 collected in fines.

Governor the Central Figure.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 12.—Governor Marshall was the central figure of the second day of the Fort Wayne fair. A reception committee of prominent Democrats met him at the railroad station and with the Jefferson club and drum and bugle corps as an escort, there was a parade through the downtown district of the city before the governor boarded a special streetcar for the fair ground. Prominent in the parade were scores of the governor's Columbia City friends who came on a special train to participate in the Marshall day exercises at the fair.

Ordered Schools Closed.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 12.—Every public school in Logansport was closed by order of the city board of health. Inspection by health officers revealed buildings in insanitary condition and students are compelled to drink unfiltered river water. The school board was ordered to keep the schools closed until the buildings are thoroughly renovated and a proper water supply is furnished. Twenty schools are affected.

Renominated by Acclamation.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Congressman Martin A. Morrison of Frankfort was renominated by acclamation by the Democrats of the Ninth district in their convention here.

Progressive Nominee For Congress.

Boonville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Progressives of the First district in convention here nominated H. C. Heldt, a hardware dealer of Oakland City, for congress.

COL. W. T. DURBIN SOUNDS KEY-NOTE

Opens Republican State Campaign With Great Speech at Marion.

STATE ISSUES ARE DISCUSSED

He Shows Up Democratic Extravagance In the Handling of Indiana's Financial Affairs.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 12.—Col. Winfield T. Durbin, Republican nominee for Governor of Indiana, opened his campaign here today. In his keynote speech he said:

Nearly fifty years ago, as a boy, I answered the call of Abraham Lincoln and Oliver P. Morton, and offered all that I had to give in behalf of my country.

Fifteen years ago the call of patriotic duty came again, and answering the summons of William McKinley and James A. Mount, I served my state and my country as best I could so long as my services as a soldier were required.

There came to me on August 6th a

COL. WINFIELD T. DURBIN,
Nominee for Governor.

call from my party—the party of Lincoln and Morton, McKinley and Mount—which it seemed to me at the time, and seems to me now, to be as much a call to patriotic duty as the summons of the sixties and nineties.

I do not believe I am wrong when I say that there never was a time when it was more important for the citizens of Indiana and of the nation to stand firm for the foundation principles of republican government, and to "hold fast to that which is good."

A Call to Duty.

I did not seek the task of being the standard bearer of Indiana republicanism in this campaign. The call came to me from my party—and grateful for the honors it has conferred upon me in the past, it found me ready today, as it did in the earlier years, to lead in this fight as willingly as I would have followed some other leader. May my tongue cling to the roof of my mouth and my right hand forget its cunning before I malign the great party organization that has so signally honored me, or strike a blow at the party of Lincoln and Grant, McKinley and Harrison, Morton and Sherman, so long as it remains true to the principles of historic republicanism, which it has not deserted.

The Republican Record.

I deem this call to duty especially binding because it came from what I believe was the best republican convention held in the state of Indiana for a third of a century.

The republican state organization in Indiana ten years ago adopted the policy of refusing to accept contributions from corporations having interests at stake in legislation or administration.

I wish to say further that Indiana during the twelve years of republican supremacy stood among the foremost of the states in matters of legislation and administration. The republican party in this state is in touch with the forward movement in political and economic thought. Its platform for 1912 is both progressive and sane.

"We Are Going to Win."

To serve again as governor of Indiana would mean no new honor to me. I have been governor once. It would mean no more to be governor twice, except as an opportunity for further service to the people. I am not in this campaign inspired by personal ambition. But with the responsibility of candidacy upon my shoulders, standing upon a splendid platform with every plank of which I am in full accord, I am in this fight to win.

In my time I have seen a good many politicians who claimed to love the people better than anyone else loved them, and I have never seen one who was worthy of the confidence of the people. Men do not find their best friends among panders and flatterers, nor do the people. The politician who is willing to sacrifice his convictions in order to gain the favor of the people will as readily sacrifice the people whenever some more valuable consideration is offered. And here I wish to say that in judging a candidate for office, judge him by his record and not by his promises; not by what he says he would do if he had the power, but by what he did do when he had the power. And never trust any candidate for office who claims a monopoly of all the wisdom, all the patriotism, all the intelligence that is given to candidates. Some great trusts have been formed in this country, some especially big ones came into being before President Taft began applying the civil and criminal laws to them, but there has never yet been a trust formed which was able to secure such a monopoly as that.

A Challenge to Prosperity.

We confront on the other hand the challenge offered by the democratic party, under the leadership of Professor Wilson and Governor Marshall, to the legislative policies under which this nation has experienced a half century of the most marvelous progress and prosperity known in the history of the world—prosperity only once seriously interrupted, and that was during a brief period of temporary abandonment of those policies.

We can get 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896 over again, fellow citizens, by committing the crime of 1892 over again—and we can help in the recommission of that crime simply by voting against the administration now in power, the policies now in effect, the prosperity that is now prevalent.

I have never been able to understand how a politician spouting hot air was any more valuable to a community, a state or a nation, than a manufacturing establishment, paying good wages and furnishing the means of livelihood to its employees. In my opinion, the man who declares that in the adjustment of the tariff is to be found a solution of the trust question is either deceiving himself, or seeking to deceive the people.

We, the American people, and especially we, the people of Indiana, are more prosperous today than we have ever been before, more prosperous than the people of any country at any time have ever been.

This is the condition we are asked to risk by a change in our national policies at this time.

Don't Pass Prosperity Up.

"Pass prosperity around" cries someone else. You can't pass prosperity around by passing prosperity up. One of two men will be elected president in November—Wilson or Taft. A vote for Roosevelt is a half vote for Wilson. This is a practical political fact that will soon be universally admitted.

I long have stood for revision downward along protective lines myself—but who is to pay the bill for billion dollar sessions if a tariff bill is framed that will bring in insufficient revenue, as did the Wilson bill at a time when the cost of national government was less than half what it is today?

A Riot of Waste.

What is true of Washington is true in lesser degree of Indianapolis; what is true of Indianapolis is true of your counties and your townships, your towns and your municipalities. I believe the time has come for retrenchment and reform in the transaction of public business. If elected governor of Indiana I pledge the people of Indiana to transact their business in the light of these declarations.

The State Debt.

It is a rather singular fact, but one confirmed by the record that up to the close of the administration of my successor, Governor Hanly, beginning with Oliver P. Morton in 1861, every republican governor of this state reduced the state debt during his administration—every democratic governor increased it. To my lot fell the honor of paying more of the state debt than any other governor in the history of Indiana.

In the management of the financial affairs of Indiana the republican party has made good. The three administrations, commencing with that of the late Governor Mount, and closing with that of ex-Governor Hanly, are alike entitled to the praise of the citizens of this commonwealth for their fidelity to the tax-payers' interests in redeeming the bonded indebtedness of the state and for the successful effort at all times to redeem.

As a concrete example of the workings of the fee system, the democratic attorney general's emoluments amounted to over $84,000 during his term, and then some, while under the republican measure, by fixing a definite sum of $7,500 per year, and converting the fees into the treasury this is the amount substantially given attorney's general for twelve years' service. And so in the larger counties of the state, and in other offices, this ratio of savings to the taxpayer, resulted.

The republican party is a debt-paying party. It takes no stock now, and never has, in the theory that it is easier to pay interest than principal. Away back in 1860, it came into a democratic inheritance upon its assumption of the state's administration, of a debt of $10,197,167. A comparison of the resources and population of the state at that time, with that of thirty-five years later, when the republican party was more recently called into power, would give some idea of its burden, and every dollar of it represented mismanagement, incapacity, and the fruits of extravagance.

False Democratic Claim.

Democratic sophomores claim that their party legislature of 1891 passed the tax law, and that it was a remedial measure of simon pure democratic origin. The truth of history is the democratic platform of 1890, was silent as to any provisions for state debt payments, and the action of the legislature was spurred by the vigorous language of the republican platform, supplemented by the growing indignation of the people, and the aggressive insistence looking to a remedy for the chaotic but natural democratic financial policy. Now, as to the facts. The tax law as in substance it stands, today, was reported unanimously in the senate; there was no party division; and it was not enacted, as democratic speakers have told, and will continue to tell you, over republican opposition. It is a forceful, practical, revenue producing law, has been ironed out from time to time by the amendments of recent legislatures, and has been modeled after in some of its features by a number of other states. As one of my ex-officio duties, while governor of the state, I had the honor to preside over the board, and at all times have upheld the excellence of the law in its relations to the taxables of the state. In their hysteria, democratic orators not only claim this law as the child of democratic parentage, but that it had transferred burdens from the agricultural claims to the corporations, when the facts are the initial increased assessment of the tax board was $86,005,206 on corporations, while the increases on lands and improvements was $152,261,225, of lots and improvements, $93,401,304, and of personal property, $56,014,453. Less than one-fourth was on corporations, while the tax levy was increased 30 per cent. and just simply as a matter of correction to these dreamland assertions of democratic speakers, that from 1894, the year the board by statute came under republican control, to the end of my term as governor, the increase of corporation assessments was 21 per cent. and farm lands and improvements 10 1/2 per cent. It is foreign to the letter and spirit of the law that its acts in any sense should be squared by politics, and any elaboration I have given proceeds from a purpose to present the facts in refutation of the false democratic claim of parentage.

Figures Are Submitted.

I now submit some figures comparing the financial record of my administration as Governor with the financial record of Governor Marshall's democratic administration.

Payment of state debt principal during Durbin's four years:

1909	$500,000.00
1911	450,000.00
1912	535,000.00
Total	$2,802,000.00

Same during Gov. Marshall's term:

1909	$157,130.22
1910	130,596.04
1911	109,134.80
1912	89,665.50
Total	$486,526.56

Average per year, $121,631.64.

Same during Gov. Marshall's three years:

1909	$57,027.75
1910	61,512.75
1911	64,437.51
Total	$182,978.01

The four years' debt payments of the republican administration reduced substantially the liability of the succeeding democratic administration.

Advance payments by county treasurers during Durbin's four years:

1910	$52,326.59
1911	$1,042,236.53
1912	$1,010,921.71
Total	$3,860,855.39

Average per year, $965,213.85.

Same during Marshall's first three years:

1909	$1,277,434.20
1910	$1,188,400.00
1911	$1,929,569.02
Total	$4,395,393.22

Average per year, $1,465,131.07.

About Advance Payments.

The republican position as to advance payments from county treasurers was that the state's share of taxes when collected while arbitrarily payable at the semi-annual settlements with the auditor of state, was from its collection an asset of the state.

In this connection I digress in reply to an article published several days ago in the Indianapolis Star, by a correspondent, who evidently with considerable unction rehearsed a criticism by my successor, Governor J. Hanly, in his inaugural address. In 1904 the owners of $285,000 3 1/4 per cent. bonds due in 1915 offered them to the state on a 3 per cent. basis. The state board of finance took up the question as to whether these bonds should be then paid and the interest saved to the state for a period of eleven years, amounting to about $85,000. The payment of the bonds on the 3 per cent. basis was ordered. The wisdom of this transaction, and the accuracy of the estimates, are proven by the fact that the year, 1895, ended with a balance to the general fund of $283,998.84. The state saved $85,000 in interest by making the payment at that time, and the treasury was not cramped for money during my successor's administration.

History Repeated.

Twice before in our history we have had a presidential campaign much like the present. In 1844, Mr. Polk of Tennessee was nominated for president and Mr. Dallas of Pennsylvania for vice president on the Democratic ticket. Mr. Polk was supposed to be a low tariff man while Mr. Dallas was a protectionist. With this ticket they thought they would be enabled to go throughout the country preaching either protection or free trade where it would best serve their purpose. In other words the battle cry was "Polk, Dallas and the Tariff of '42," which meant that while Polk was a free trader they would abide by the then existing tariff that was thoroughly protective. The result was that Polk and Dallas were elected and in 1846 was passed the famous free trade law of that year made possible by the vote of the vice president himself, who had been put on the ticket because he was a protectionist, and for 14 years we had as near free trade in this country as was possible with such hardships and times of anguish and pity that we do not like to recall them.

Again in 1892 the Democratic party nominated for its standard bearer the free trader, Grover Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland had served a term as president but had not been able to carry out his tariff ideas because congress was not of the same belief. He had however, sent out his famous free trade message of 1887 and the country feared that if he became president with a Democratic house and senate the tariff would be lowered most materially and alarm was felt throughout the country because of that contingency. So Mr. Cleveland in a speech made at the Madison Square Garden during that campaign and in other speeches throughout the country, told the business men and manufacturers that they need not fear any drastic legislation that would injure any American industry if he were elected or words to that effect. Well, what was the result? Cleveland was elected and with him a Democratic house and senate and we got the Wilson free trade law, which Mr. Cleveland would not sign, not because he thought it would ruin our industries but because it did not go far enough toward the free trade which he desired. We had those years of idleness and low wages or no wages, those years of unprofitable farming, those years of increased imports which displaced American goods and those years of distress and starvation so prevalent in every large city and community from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

And now we come again to the nomination by the Democratic party of another avowed free trader, but the Democratic party, fearing to arouse the hostility of the laboring classes both in the factory and on the farm says in its platform:

"We recognize our system of tariff taxation is intimately connected with the business of the country and we

Sam Sanderson Says:

That it's passing strange how much the farmers can learn about agriculture by watching the race horse drivers playing for an inside position on the race track.

favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legitimate industry."

And Mr. Wilson is already telling the people of the country that while he believes in ultimate free trade, in taking off every duty that is not necessary for revenue, yet he would go about it very gradually and kill only one industry at a time. The American people should by this time be wise to such proceedings. They have had two doses of this kind of medicine and we do not believe that they will accept the statement of the free trade party or the free trade candidate that if successful they will injure no American industry. The only way to prevent history repeating itself is to re-elect Mr. Taft and the Republican congress and then there will be no doubt that an American workman will lose his job or any American farmer his market.

Cook, the Poet Second Baseman, Writes Jingles About Ball Team

(By Ed Cook.)

Old central boys with many Christians,
 Came to Rushville with great intentions
 For McGuire and Shook they each got there's
 And to there followers sure brought tears.

To win a game and beat old Chic,
 Every team will have to go a lick.
 He's mighty skinny and powerfully tall
 But can throw a ball, thro any size wall.

Every team that comes here thinks we're pickens,
 But I'm here to state that they take home the licken.
 Just look at the games that we have won
 and at Maibaugh, how he's brought home the MON.

The boys on our team never raise a holler
 For the're out there to earn the almighty dollar.
 They work with their might, and all their skill
 And thro this they intend to keep Maibaugh's good will.

To each boy on our team I'm going to make
 A little verse in rhyme for old time sake.
 Now don't get angry, nor don't feel blue
 Of anything that I may say of you.

Of course we wouldn't dare to begin
 Unless we brought our manager in
 To see and enjoy the story Cinderella;
 Next Sunday just look under the large umbrella.

A little fellow, his name I'll not mention
 His work on the field draws quite an attention
 His posture is quite like that of an ox,
 For he's got plenty of pepper from the old pepper box.

Now Bobby, old "Pep" has for a mate
 A boy with a record as clean as a slate.
 Of this young fellow no one must kick,
 No pitcher as yet has a record like Chic.

A benched legged fellow there is on third
 Who hops around the bag like a broken wing bird.
 To lead off at bat and the game to begin
 This job depends on old Johnny Finn.

The short stop position is a place very hard
 Both to the player and keeper of score card.
 Now Eddie Carter whose the light of our soul,
 Does a mighty good job in filling this hole.

Now next to Carter we have a riddle fellow,
 who says he plays second fiddle.
 On Sunday while out there just down that way look
 And don't be surprised to find our old friend Cook.

A lad we have from Connersville,
 Dark complexioned against his will
 For when it comes to playing first base
 No other one there except Thomas' face.

Our out field trio are surely there
 They generally catch balls that come through the air.
 With running catches and quick return
 A loud applause from the crowd they earn.

Now Halty the boy with the little blue cap,
 Has placed old Moscow upon the map.
 He's a boy that never quits and never whines
 To earn five extra he tries for the sign.

A Tyrus Cobb we have in center,
 The crowd goes crazy when he enters.
 A peculiar cuss is this old man
 For a home he's won with many a fan.

A trio, for right in a race very hot
 Between old Chance, Coombs and Scott.
 All three of these players are very good
 And are there when it comes to weilding the wood.

Our Scotty boy has a peculiar manner
 And on his bat, carries a Rushville banner.
 He's a boy that's timid for his legs to show,
 For in his ball suit, his pants hangs low.

I guess the team I have all mentioned
 nything said was with good intention.
 A couple of words to several more
 And at me I hope they'll not get sore.

Just look at the fellow at the old grandstand
 No nicer boy than this gentleman
 To Alex. he went, his fellow brothers to whip
 In order to win K. A secretaryship.

There's Hiner the reporter of the "Republican" fame,
 Who records all the dope on our old ball game,
 He gets all the errors and the plays that are made
 As he sits under the Brella in the nice cool shade.

Now Perry our Umpire, he certainly works hard
 As an inventor he's there with a new score card.
 If this a success, a million he'll save
 No other man's face he ever will shave.

The Scanlon hotel is a mighty good house
 From top to bottom there's not a louse.
 The trouble I find is, that it is too small
 To accommodate the boys that come to play ball.

I guess I'll quit as I'm tired
 For if I don't, I'm sure to get fired.
 The Company I work for won't stand for such tricks,
 There after good service and not gold bricks.

JURY MOSTLY TAFT.

The jury in the Nelson-Johnson account suit, which was out about five hours last night in circuit court, by way of diversion, took a straw vote by a secret ballot on the presidential race. Six stood for Taft, five for Wilson and one for Roosevelt. The Bull Moose refused to divulge his name, although he, whoever he was, was the subject of much rally.

SAYS IT WAS JOHN MONROE

aper Declares Man Dead at Knights-town Lived at Williamstown.

According to the Greensburg News, the body of the man who dropped dead in Knightstown last Sunday evening and which is still unclaimed was John Monroe, who, for a number of years, spent his winters in the old tile works at Williamstown. He was a very religious man, putting is faith in the Quaker belief, and he is spoken of in the highest terms by the people of the north part of Decatur county. A few months ago, before going to Knightstown, where he has to follow his vocation as a tinner, he showed Walter Hite a paid up life insurance policy, and at the same time told him of owning real estate in Shelbyville.

WAS HAULED TO JAIL.

Will Mitchell was arrested this afternoon by Chief McAllister for drunkenness. Mitchell was found in an alley and was hauled to jail by Joe Lakin. He will be tried tomorrow morning.

FOUND FOR DEFENDANT.

Squire Kautzer found in favor of the defendant in the $45 damage suit of Schantz vs. O'Reilly, tried yesterday. Ed Schantz alleged that one of O'Reilly's cows was on the road and that he ran into it smashing his buggy. It was brought out that O'Reilly was not at fault because the wire fence had been cut.

HAS SOME BEARING 300 ROOTERS IN SHELBY COUNTY COMING SUNDAY

Decision of Judge Blair Would Keep Treasurer There From Drawing $600 Annually.

FOR COLLECTING CITY TAXES

The decision of Judge Blair that Alvan Moor, former county treasurer, should not be paid for collecting city taxes has some bearing in Shelby county, as the office of city treasurer was abandoned about two years ago, and since then Bert McDonald, county treasurer, and Frank Fagel, county auditor, have been doing the work. The treasurer of the county is paid $600 a year by the city for the collection of city taxes and the auditor is paid $100 a year by the city for making out the tax duplicate.

Before the office of city treasurer was abandoned, the treasurer collected the city taxes and with the city clerk made up the tax duplicate. The legislature changed the law and provided that the county treasurer should be the tax collector not only for the county but for the cities and incorporated towns as well. It was provided that the auditor should prepare the tax duplicate. The new law fails to make any provision for extra pay for the county officials, but an ordinance was passed by the council providing that the treasurer be paid $600 and the auditor $100.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess offers a feature Vitagraph, "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address" for the first picture tonight. It is a story of the greatest battle ever fought and is said to be a great picture. The other is a comedy "The Cat and the Canary." It is a Selig picture.

An attraction of an entirely different nature will be offered at the English theater in Indianapolis during the latter part of this week. George M. Cohan, who is noted for the action developed in all his comedy writings, fairly outdid himself in transferring the "Get Rich Quick Wallingford" magazine hero, created by George Randolph Chester, to the stage.

While the hero, J. Rufus Wallingford might be criticized, Mr. Cohan has made this whirlwind promoter such a lovable character that an audience is in sympathy with him and his visionary schemes five minutes after he commences to unfold them.

In writing this comedy, Mr. Cohan borrowed only two characters from the book, Wallingford, the central figure, and Blackie Daw, his companion. Around these roles Mr. Cohan created twenty speaking characters and many villagers who inject humor into the story of Wallingford's arrival in the town of Battlesburg and his subsequent sale of the covered carpet ticks.

JURY OUT ABOUT 5 HOURS

Returns Judgment of $25.50 For J. O. Nelson—19 Ballots.

After being out almost five hours, a jury in circuit court returned judgment for $25.50 for J. O. Nelson against Lafayette Johnson, who purchased a corn planter from Nelson, a former Carthage merchant, and refused to pay for it because he said it was not as guaranteed. The costs were assessed against the plaintiff. The jury cast nineteen ballots, it is said. The case of Alvan Moor against the city of Rushville for $450 for salary for collecting city taxes, which was decided against Mr. Moor the other day, was dismissed today.

ACCEPT INVITATION.

Ivy Company No. 35, U. R. K. of P. will go to Indianapolis Sunday, September 22, to take part in the field day exercises of the First Regiment at Broad Ripple park. The local company belongs to the Third Regiment but will accept the special invitation of the First Regiment.

Special Train From Newcastle Will Carry Crowd of Maxwell Supporters For Game Here.

ERECTING EXTRA SEATS

Arrangements Being Made to Take Care of Large Crowd—Dave Anderson Signed For Outfield.

The game Sunday with the Maxwell team of Newcastle, champions of the Indiana State League, continues to be the main topic of conversation on the streets of the city. Rushville is as near base ball crazy as it ever gets and one of the largest crowds of the season will be out for the game.

Manager Maibaugh is preparing to take care of the large crowd and is erecting a section of bleacher seats to accommodate 500 fans. The seats will be placed along the first base and right field lines and will give the spectators a clear view of the field.

The locals are expecting a hard game, if not harder than the one last Sunday, which was lost 4 to 3 in ten innings. The team is in good condition and is confident of beating the Maxwells. Manager Maibaugh will strengthen his team but little as he believes he has a ball team that can beat Newcastle. A new face will be seen in the outfield. He has signed Dave Anderson, a brother of Bob Anderson, Rushville's catcher, for an outfield position. The rest of the line-up will remain the same with Harvey Utrecht in the box.

Word from Newcastle is to the effect that Dal Williams is expecting to take the second game of the series. The Maxwells will bring 300 rooters. The Newcastle Courier says concerning the game:

Dal Williams, manager of the Maxwell base ball club yesterday completed arrangements for the base ball special on the L. E. & W. to Rushville next Sunday to carry his team and the fans who will accompany it. It is expected that at least 300 Maxwell supporters will go to Rushville to participate in the rooting. The train will leave Newcastle at 12 o'clock and returning will leave Rushville about 6 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be $1.

Williams had his big squad of players out for practice Tuesday night and is rounding the bunch into shape for the Rushville series. The workout showed every player to be in form, especially Catcher Riley who was the sensation of last Sunday's contest. Riley will spend the winter in this city and will establish a home here in which will be quartered his wife and his mother. He will be employed at the Maxwell factory.

Arch Riley, the premier third baseman of the Indiana league, who has been with the Indianapolis club, arrived in Newcastle Tuesday. He has been paid off for the season by Indianapolis and next Monday will go to Columbus to enter Ohio university. Riley will be a frequent visitor to Newcastle during the coming winter as his mother and brother will reside here.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A called meeting of the Juanita club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Tucker in West Tenth street, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Poston, living southeast of the city entertained at dinner Wednesday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Agnes Cook of Indianapolis, the following guests, Mrs. Ora Logan and daughter, Nellie, Mrs. Ed Perkins and daughter, Lavonne and Cora, Mrs. J. Perkins and son, Carl, Mrs. Agnes Cook and daughter, Mildred.

The Epworth League of the St. Paul M. E. church will entertain Friday night at the home of Miss Mary Carr, corner of Fifth and Perkins street in honor of the young people of the city who will leave soon for the various colleges and universities. The event promises to be a very unique affair as the guests have been asked to appear in a make-up to represent an illness. It is expected many bandages will be in evidence.

CHAPTER I.

The Vanishing Portrait.

Evelyn Grayson, meeting me on the old Boston Post Road, between Greenwich and Stamford, gave me a message from her uncle. That is the logical beginning of this story; though the start it may be better to hark back a few months, to the day on which Evelyn Grayson and I first met.

Then, as now, we were each driving our own car; she, a great sixty-horsepower machine, all glistening pale yellow, and I, a compact six-cylinder racer, of dull dusty gray. But we were not on any such broad, roomy thoroughfare as the Boston Post Road. On the contrary we were short-cutting through a narrow, rough lane, beset by stone walls and interrupted at intervals by a series of sharp and treacherous angles.

I know I shall never forget the momentary impression I received. Out of the golden sunlight, it seemed to me, there had emerged suddenly a tableau of Queen Titania on a topaz throne—the fairest Queen Titania imagination ever conjured—and I, in my mad, panting speed was about to crash into the gauzy fabric of that dream creation and rend it with brutal, torturing onrush of relentless, hard-driven nickel steel. I take no credit to myself for what I did. Volition was absent. My hands acted on an impulse above and beyond all tardy mental guidance. For just a flashing instant the gray nose of my car rose before me, as in strenuous assault it mounted half way to the coping of the roadside wall. I felt my seat dart away from beneath me, was conscious of my body in swift, unsupported aerial flight, and then—but it is idle to attempt to set down the conglomerate sensations of that small fraction of a second. When I regained consciousness, Queen Titania was kneeling in the dust of the lane beside me—a very distressed and anxious Queen Titania, with wide, startled eyes, and quivering sympathetic lips—and about us were a half dozen or more of the vicinal country folk.

Between that meeting in mid-May and this meeting on the old Boston Post Road in mid-September, there had been others, of course; for Queen Titania, whose every-day name, as I have said, was Evelyn Grayson, was the niece and ward of my nearest neighbor, Mr. Robert Cameron, a gentleman recently come to reside on what for a century and more had been known as the old Townsbury Estate, extending for quite a mile along the Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound in the neighborhood of Greenwich.

The intervening four months had witnessed the gradual growth of as near an approach to intimacy between Cameron and myself as was possible considering the manner of man that Cameron was. By which statement I mean to imply naught to my neighbor's discredit. He was in all respects admirable—a gentleman of education and culture, widely traveled, of exalted ideals and noble principles to which he gave rigid adherence. But—I was about to qualify this by describing him as reserved and taciturn. I fear, though, to give a wrong impression. He was scarcely that. There were

"Cascarets" For A Sick, Sour Stomach

Gently But Thoroughly Cleanse and Regulate Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels While You Sleep.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

A QUICK RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Treatment Relieves All Distressing Symptoms.

Do you suffer for weeks every Summer with Hay Fever or Rose Cold? If you do, just get a fifty-cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and see how quickly you will get relief. In five minutes after applied that stuffed-up feeling in the head will be gone, the pain and soreness in the back of the throat relieved, and the sneezing and running at the nose stopped.

Moreover, this remedy does not simply give you temporary relief, but heals and strengthens the weakened, inflamed membranes lining of the nose and throat, making it less sensitive to dust, dampness and certain odors, which generally bring on the fits of sneezing and weeping.

Don't suffer any longer, and don't experiment with strong snuffs, powders and sprays which aggravate the trouble, but try this simple, sensible treatment. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give back your money.

moments, however, when he was unresponsive, and he was never demonstrative. He had more poise than any man I know. He allowed you to see just so much of him, and no more. At times he was almost stubbornly reticent. And yet, in spite of these qualities, which appeared to be cultivated rather than inherent, he gave repeated evidence of a nature at once so simple and kindly and sympathetic as to command both confidence and affection.

To the progress of my intimacy with Evelyn there had been no such temperamental impediment. She was fearlessly outspoken, with a frankness born of unspoiled innocence; barely six weeks having elapsed between her graduation from the tiny French convent of Sainte Barbe near Paris and our perilous encounter in that contracted, treacherous, yet blessed little Connecticut lane. And she possessed, moreover, a multiplicity of additional charms, both of person and disposition—charms too numerous indeed to enumerate, and far too sacred to discuss. From which it may rightly be inferred that we understood each other, Evelyn and I, and that we were already considerably beyond the state or condition of mere formal acquaintance.

It was no Queen Titania who now came gliding to a stand beside me on the broad, level, well-oiled highway, under a double row of arching elms. It was no gossamer fairy, but Hebe, the Goddess of Youth, with creamy skin and red lips and a lilting melody of voice.

"What ho, Sir Philip! We are well met!"

And then she told me that her Uncle Robert had telephoned for me, leaving a message with my man, bidding me come to him at my earliest leisure. "Why not come for dinner?" she added; and her eyes gave accent to her words.

"But you?" I queried; for her car was headed in the opposite direction.

I am going alone to Norton. I have a hamper in the tonneau for that poor O'Malley family. I shall be back in time. We dine at half-past seven, you know. You'll come?"

"Of course I'll come," I answered her. I think she must have heard more in my voice than the simple words, for her lids drooped, for just a breath, and the color flamed sudden below her lowered lashes.

But, after all, I saw very little of her that evening. It is true that she sat on my right at table, piquantly, youthfully beautiful in the softly tinted light which filtered through the pink and silver filigree candle-shades, but the atmosphere of the dinner was tinged by a vague, unreasoning constraint as from some ominously brooding yet undefinable influence which overhung the three of us. And when the coffee and liqueurs were served, employing some slender pretext for her going, she bade us good-night, and left us, not to return.

In justice to Cameron, I must add that he appeared least affected by—and certainly in no wise responsible for—the pervading infestivity. He had been, indeed, rather less demure than was often his wont, chatting with almost gayety concerning Evelyn's new role of Lady Bountiful and of her Noroton beneficiaries. As for the subject upon which he desired to consult me, it had not been so much as mentioned; so in looking back, it seems impossible that matters of which neither Evelyn nor I was at the time informed could have exerted an effect, save through Cameron's undetected, subconscious inducement.

Even after his niece had withdrawn, Cameron continued for a time to discuss with me topics of general and public, rather than personal, import. He spoke, I remember, of a series of articles on "The Commercial Resources of the United States," the publication of which had just begun in The Week, of which I am owner and editor; and though I fancied at first that it might be in this connection he wished to consult me, I very soon discerned that he was merely using a statement contained therein as a text for certain views of his own on the conservation and development of the country's timber supply.

I go thus into what may seem uninteresting detail, partly that I may give a hint as to the character of Cameron's mind, but more especially to indicate how lightly he would have had me think he regarded that for which he sought me.

Meanwhile my curiosity grew keener. It was natural, I suppose, that I should fancy Evelyn involved in some way. In fact I then attributed the depression during dinner to her knowledge of what her uncle and guardian purposed to say to me. Likewise I found in this conception the reason for her sudden and unusual desertion. Hitherto when I had dined here Evelyn had remained with us while we smoked our cigarettes, leading us at length to the music room, where for a glad half-hour the rich melody of her youthful sweet contralto voice mingled in pleasing harmony with her own piano accompaniment.

And while I vainly made effort to imagine wherein I might have laid myself open to the disapproval of this most punctilious of guardians—for I expected nothing less than a studiously polite reference to some shortcoming of which I had been unwittingly guilty—I momentarily lost track of my host's discourse. Emerging from my abstraction it was with a measure of relief that I heard him saying:

"I think you told me once, Clyde, that you rather prided yourself on your ability to get a line on one's character from his handwriting. That's why I telephoned for you this afternoon. I have received an anonymous letter."

There was an all too apparent assumption of nonchalance in his manner of expression to deceive even the least observant, of which I am not one. The effect was to augment the seriousness of the revelation. I saw at once that he was more disquieted than he would have me know.

He was leaning forward, a little constrainedly, his left hand gripping the arm of his chair, the fingers of his right hand toying with the stem of his gold-rimmed Bohemian liqueur glass.

"An anonymous letter!" I repeated, with a deprecatory smile. "Anonymous letters should be burned and forgotten. Surely you're not bothering about the writer?"

I wish I could put before you an exact reproduction of Cameron's face as I then saw it; those rugged outlines, the heritage of Scottish ancestry, softened and refined by a brilliant intellectuality; the sturdy chin and square jaw; the heavy underlip meeting the upper in scarcely perceptible curve; the broad, homely nose; the small, but alert, gray eyes, shining through the round lenses of his spectacles; the high, broad, sloping, white brow and the receding border of dark brown, slightly grizzled hair. That, superficially, was the face. But I saw more than that. In the visage of one naturally brave I saw a battle waged behind a mask—a battle between courage and fear; and I saw fear win.

Then the mask became opaque once more, and Cameron, giving me smile for smile, was replying.

"There are anonymous letters and anonymous letters. Ordinarily your method is the one I should pursue. Indeed I may say that when, about a month or so ago, I received a communication of that character, I did almost precisely what you now advise. Certainly I followed one-half of your prescription—I forgot the letter; though, for lack of fire in the dog days, I did not burn it, but thrust it into a drawer with an accumulation of advertising circulars."

My apprehension lest Evelyn and I were personally affected had been by now quite dissipated. It was perfectly apparent to me that Cameron alone was involved; yet my anxiety was none the less eager. Already my sympathy and co-operation were enlisted. I could only hope that he had mentally exaggerated the gravity of the situation, yet my judgment of him was that his inclination would be to err in the opposite direction.

"And now something has happened to recall it to your memory?"

"Something happened very shortly

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles.

Who does not know the value of Sage and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, use it according to the simple directions, and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in the appearance of your hair.

All druggists sell it, under guarantee that the money will be refunded if the remedy is not exactly as represented. Special Agents, Hargrove and Mullin,

No More Gray Or Faded Hair

Women and men who use PARISIAN SAGE can be sure their hair will never turn gray.

PARISIAN SAGE will preserve the natural color of the hair; stop it from becoming faded and lifeless, and by nourishing the hair root give to the hair a lustre and radiance that compels admiration.

PARISIAN SAGE stops falling hair; banishes dandruff; makes the scalp clean and free from itchiness and promotes a growth of heavy hair.

after its receipt," he replied. "Something very puzzling. But in spite of that, I was inclined to treat the matter as a bit of clever chicanery, devised for the purpose, probably, of extortion. As such, I again put it from my thoughts; but today I received a second letter, and I admit I am interested. The affair has features which make it, indeed, uncommonly perplexing."

I fear my imagination was sluggish. Although, in spite of his dissemblance, I saw that he was strangely moved by these happenings, I could fancy no very terrifying concomitants of the rather commonplace facts he had narrated. For anonymous letters I had ever held scant respect. An ambushed enemy, I argued, is admittedly a coward. And so I was in danger of growing impatient.

"When the second letter came," he continued, bringing his left hand forward to join his right on the dazzling white ground of the table's damask, "I searched among the circulars for the first, and found it. I want you to see them both. The writing is very curious—I have never seen anything just like it—and the signature, if I may call it that, is still more singular. On the first letter, I took it for a blot. But on the second letter occurs the same black blur or smudge of identical outline."

Of course I thought of the Black Hand. It was the natural corollary, seeing that the newspapers had been giving us a surfeit of Black Hand threats and Black Hand outrages. But, somehow, I did not dare to voice it. To have suggested anything so ordinary to Cameron in his present mood would have been to offer him offense.

And when, at the next moment, he drew from an inner pocket of his evening coat two thin, wax-like sheets of paper and passed them to me, I was glad that I had kept silence. For the letters were no rough, rude scrawls of an illiterate Mafia or Camorra. In phraseology as well as in penmanship they were impressively unique.

"If you don't mind," Cameron was saying, "you might read them aloud."

He rose and switched on a group of electric wall lights at my back, and I marked for the hundredth time his physique—his towering height, his powerful shoulders, his leanness of hip and sturdy straightness of limb. He did not look the forty years to which he confessed.

One of the long French windows which gave upon the terrace stood ajar, and before resuming his seat Cameron paused to close it, dropping over it the looped curtains of silver gray velvet that matched the walls.

In the succeeding moment the room was ghostly silent; and then, breaking against the stillness, was the sound of my voice, reading:

SOME IDEAS FOR GIFTS

DAINTY NOVELTIES SURE TO PLEASE THE RECIPIENT.

Clever Needlewoman Never Need Be at a Loss for a Suitable Present—More Pleasing When Made by Hand.

A gift that is made by hand is always twice as valuable as one that is bought, and so many dainty novelties are seen now that offer suggestions for needlewomen that no one need be at a loss as to what to make for the traveler or the girl graduate or the bride of these summer days.

To begin with the woman who is going away—there are so many gifts one hardly knows where to start, but one of the nicest is a set of "dress envelopes" for her trunk.

These envelopes are made of heavy linen, the shape copied from any envelope, and they should be the size of the trunk. At least a half dozen may be made, bound with ribbon and worked with a monogram, and then into them may be slipped the traveler's prettiest frocks, keeping them from ever coming in contact with the other things in the trunk.

Sometimes these envelopes are simply doubled sheets of bristol board or heavy cardboard, covered with linen and tied together with ribbon.

Another nice gift to make for the traveler is a set of bags for her shoes, or a case lined with oiled silk for her toilet articles.

For a bride-to-be the gifts are also infinite in number and variety. A half dozen little guest towels marked with cross-stitch designs, satchel pads for the chest in which her trousseau is kept, anything in the way of household linen marked with her monogram, and also any bit of hand-made lingerie you may select.

Nothing very new, you say. Well, perhaps not, but they will be new and wonderful to the girl wrapped in her dreams of future and present happiness.

For the girl graduate there are many presents easily made. One of these is a pretty case of kodak pictures made from long strips of linen fastened together, the inner strip being made with "buttonholes" wide enough for the pictures at intervals both top and bottom.

These may then be folded over and over and tied with ribbons, the girl's monogram and the date being worked on the outside edge.

Another novel and attractive gift is a set of collars, cuffs, a jabot, a belt and a hat band, all of hand-worked linen, edged perhaps with tiny frills of lace, while another nice gift for either bride or girl graduate is a set of aprons—a work apron, an embroidery apron—being half way up to form a huge pocket for work), a chafing dish apron and a garden apron—all made by hand and embroidered with the girl's monogram.

HAVING DESIGNS ON THE CAPITAL

Rebels Concentrating for Attack On Mexico City.

TO JOIN THE ZAPATISTAS

Combination of the Two Forces of Those Who are in Rebellion Against Madero Government, It is Believed, Would Put in Field a Real Army of No Fewer Than 10,000 Men, Who Could Seriously Menace the Capital.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The belief held here, in view of the developments of the last twenty-four hours, is that the Mexican rebels are striking their final blows along the border preparatory to moving south.

According to war department information, Generals Rojas and Campa, with about 1,000 men, have already started their march south. They have destroyed a great deal of railroad property, it is said, for the sole reason that they wish to make it impossible for the approaching federals to pursue them. Threats have been made that all the railway bridges south of Naco and Del Rio, Tex., would be dynamited.

It is believed that the total rebel force when the present concentration is complete will total about 3,000 men. The prediction is confidently made here that they have no other purpose than that of effecting a juncture with the Zapatistas in Durango and Zacatecas. If this union of forces were accomplished it is believed the rebels would then have a real army of at least 10,000 men, with which they could menace Mexico City itself.

The situation at Cananea has been relieved by the arrival of reinforcements, bringing the federal garrison up to more than 500 men. No further anxiety is felt for the American colony there.

According to the information received at the war department, the federals succeeded in preventing the capture of Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Tex., by the rebels. The latter lost four killed in the fighting.

Lawlessness is increasing in the south of Mexico, the state department is informed. The conditions are growing worse in Guanajuato and Michoacan. Manuel Bettancourt, an American mining manager in the state of Guerrero, has been severely and perhaps fatally wounded by insurgents. Another American, James D. Burt, in Vera Cruz, killed one of an attacking party which brutally assaulted members of his family.

Several Americans engaged in business or mining in Mexico have been visitors to the war and state departments. Most of them regard the Mexican situation as absolutely hopeless. They declare that the Madero government is weak and vacillating and that the president is surrounded by a clique, each member of which is exceedingly jealous of everyone else. Not until the Mexican people find in themselves sufficient real patriotism to go out and put down the revolutionary disorders will peace be restored in the republic, say these Americans.

MAKING THREATS

Mexican Rebels Highly Incensed at Our Government's Action.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 12.—Incensed at the action of the United States in permitting Mexican federal troops to cross American territory to engage them, the Mexican rebels under Rojas, Salazar and several lesser commanders, are threatening to shoot Douglas, Ariz., to pieces and kill every American they can reach. General Rojas sent word that he would attack Agua Prieta, opposite Douglas, if it did not surrender within twenty-four hours. The federal commander of Agua Prieta at once wired to Juarez for reinforcements, and General Huerta ordered General Sanjinas and 500 men, mostly Yaqui Indians, to entrain and go, through United States territory, to the relief of the beleaguered garrison.

Rojas is highly incensed because the Cananea Americans have asked for arms. He declared that if any Americans take part in the defense of any town attacked by rebels, it will be a signal for all Americans to be treated as enemies and slaughtered indiscriminately.

SENATOR HEYBURN

Idaho Notable Who Is Reported Critically Ill.

Washington, Sept. 12.—Senator William B. Heyburn of Idaho is seriously ill in his apartments at Stoneleigh court, in Washington. His ailment has been diagnosed as angina pectoris.

STEFANSSON MUST SHOW NORWEGIANS

They Look Askance at Report of White Eskimos.

Christiania, Sept. 12.—Prof. Stefansson's alleged discovery of white Eskimos in the Arctic has created skepticism here. Dr. Stefansson has heretofore not been regarded here as an authority on such matters, and Dr. Skattum, the ethnologist, thinks the report needs elucidation.

Norwegian explorers and ethnologists, including Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, long ago reported seeing Eskimos who possessed some of the characteristics of the north German type both in Arctic America and Greenland.

It is generally assumed that Norwegian emigrants mingled with the Eskimos and became amalgamated, but the existence of whole tribes of a northern European type is regarded as very improbable.

HIS LAST FLIGHT

Paul Peck is the Latest Victim of the Lure of the Air.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Before a crowd of more than 1,000 persons, Aviator Paul Peck, twenty-two years old, holder of the American duration record, fell 200 feet to the ground while giving an exhibition late yesterday afternoon on Cicero field and received injuries from which he died a few hours later.

Peck was descending to earth after a short flight when his biplane was caught squarely by a gust of wind, causing the machine to tip sharply downward and then fall in a heap. He was taken to a hospital, and there it was found that both legs and arms were broken, his skull and ribs fractured, and that he had suffered severe internal injuries.

Roosevelt's Reception at Portland. Portland, Ore., Sept. 12.—Colonel Roosevelt received a rousing reception in Oregon. When he left his car at Portland he walked over a rose-carpeted platform to the waiting automobile which took him through lines of cheering spectators to the Oregon hotel, where he breakfasted with the Progressive committee, and was then driven through the city. Thousands crowded the sidewalks, cheering him madly as he passed. His principle speech was made at a tremendous meeting.

All Were Once Slang. If we had never allowed slang to legitimize itself in orthodox language where should we be today? A reference to old slang dictionaries gives the answer. Take Grose's, published at the end of the eighteenth century—the "Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue," by the first lexicographer who recognized the word "slang" itself. We find him classing under it such words as bay window, bedizened, bet, bluster, budget, brogue, capon, grouse, churl, cox, cobbler, cur, domineer, eyesore, flabby, flog, flout, foundling, fuss, gag malingering, messmate, slump, saunter, sham, rascal, trip and yelp. Wait until next the anti-slang purist uses one of these words and then confound him by reference to Grose.

Said No, But Was Nice About It. At a meeting of business men a discussion was started regarding a banker who has the reputation for hard bargaining, close fistiness and invariably getting his pound of flesh. "Oh, well," said one man, "he isn't so bad. I went to him to get a loan of $5,000 and he treated me very courteously." "Did he lend you the money?" was asked. "No," was the reply, "he didn't. But he hesitated a minute before he refused."

Chicago, yesterday posted the customary warning to aviators against going up, but Col. Peck, believing his small biplane would be fast enough to carry him through the choppy wind, went into the air in spite of the caution. The week before he sailed here, Col. Peck made flights daily at Concy Island, Cincinnati, where the most intrepid aviators, including Curtis, had refused to ascend because of the treacherous air currents.

Peck would have escaped with minor injuries, it was declared, had it not been for the fact that the heavy engine, crashing through the framework with its gasoline tank and iron fittings, struck Peck in the neck and across the chest.

Peck is American Licensed Aviator No. 57, and had developed a monoplane and the biplane in which he was so badly injured. The biplane was only 26 feet span, headless and was equipped with a gyro motor.

While the Wright brothers and Glenn H. Curtiss are wholly recognized as the fathers of American biplanes, young Peck has the distinction of developing the first all-American monoplane.

Embracing a number of new and ingenious features, his machine could not fairly be characterized as a copy of anything. Instead it is a combination of ideas for which Mr. Peck alone has been given the credit.

On May 24 of this year he further distinguished himself by breaking the American duration record, formerly held by Howard Gill, and established a mark of 4 hours 23 minutes and 15 seconds.

Col. Peck has been operating aeroplanes only a little more than a year. He took up aviation at College Park, Md.; near Washington, and showed much aptitude in the science. In nine days he had mastered the running of a biplane under the tutelage of Aviator Rex Smith.

This is believed to be a record for passing the test. He did much flying at College Park, and last winter went with the United States Army aviators to Augusta, Ga., flying there during the season. Since that time he had done exhibition flying in several States.

Col. Peck was 24 years old. While he made his home in Washington, his parents live in West Virginia. His young wife died in Washington last April after a transfusion of blood from her husband had been made in an attempt to save her life.

To officers of the United States Army Aviation Corps Peck's plunge came as a shock as he was known to have been a very careful aviator.

Peck had promised his mother and sisters to give up flying upon his return to Washington from the West. News of the accident was communicated to Miss Bertie Peck, a sister, to Peck's parents at Sullivan, W. Va. Paul Peck, Jr., a five-months-old son of the aviator, resides in Washington with his maternal grandmother.

in the tabernacle meetings. The prayer circle among the girls at the high school has been the means of bringing many to Christ, and her real love for the work in which she is engaged is the secret of her success in the work.

Another place of Miss Parshall's work, and yet fully as important, is the Bible study class, meeting three afternoons each week, has come to be a means of help to those who desire to know the word of God and how to use it in doing personal work.

Many have wondered why Miss Parshall would choose the work she has, when her home offers her a life of comparative ease and social distinction, but this only proves that to those who have tried it, the joy, the happiness and satisfaction of doing work for Christ is greater than that derived from any other source, no matter how great the possibilities of a social or professional life.

MAPLE MAKES LONG JUMP AND WINS

Rushville Trainer Drives Race at Terre Haute One Day and at Ft. Wayne Next.

ONES AND DAGLER IN MONEY

After driving Lady Maude C. to a good position in the summary of the three-year-old trot in Terre Haute Tuesday, Clell Maple of this city rushed to Fort Wayne Wednesday, where he won a race in straight heats with Nellie Gray, a gray mare belonging to a Columbus man. John Dagler and Harrie Jones also finished well up in the money at Fort Wayne yesterday.

Nellie Gray won the 2:16 trot by outdistancing the field in each heat. The time by heats was 2:12¼; 2:12½ and 2:12¼. She got in the money at the State fair, but not near so well up.

Harrie Jones, driving Katherine R., pushed Derby Boy to win the feature race on the program yesterday, a brewery thousand dollar stake event, in which Katherine R. finished second each of the three heats. She threatened to be dangerous each heat but could not forge ahead. The time was 2:12¼; 2:14½ and 2:12¼.

Ruth Randall, John Dagler's trotter, and Capitola, were to fight it out for first money in the 2:18 trot today. The race was unfinished yesterday, Ruth Randall winning the first two heats and Capitola the last two. Three heats were in 2:14¼ and he fourth in 2:15½.

Curt Gosnell won the 2:18 trot with F. A. L. at Fairmount, W. Va., yesterday. Best time, 2:17¼.

nineteen years in different positions. He was operator, train dispatcher and passenger conductor for short intervals and he was agent of the Shelbyville station for fourteen years.

At length he struck his gait in a line for which he was especially well qualified, the manufacture of furniture, a business which largely contributed to the prosperity of Shelbyville. In 1900, in connection with Frank D. Blanchard and Jacob A. Conrey, Mr. Campbell organized a corporation for the purpose of making furniture.

In 1876, he was married to Lucinda H. Harding, and six children were born: Ada L., now the wife of Will Smith; Margaret M., wife of Fred S. Buggie, former editor of the Shelbyville Republican; Ruth, Florence, Stanley and George Campbell, the latter being in New Mexico. His first wife died in 1899 and in September, 1900, he was married to Angeline Gowels. After this union, one son was born.

COL. PECK PAYS FOR HIS DARING

Intrepid Young Aviator, Who Gave Brilliant Exhibition Here August 1, Crushed By Biplane.

IT FALLS ON CHICAGO FIELD

Daring Birdman Refuses Counsel of Wiser Men and Soars in Air For Last Time.

Unfearful of danger and not heeding the warnings given him, Col. Paul Peck, the aviator who made two brilliant flights here Wednesday, August first, yesterday afternoon late was caught by a strong gust of wind while sailing over Cicero field at Chicago at an altitude of two hundred feet, and he and his biplane were hurled to the ground. The brilliant young birdman was so horribly crushed that he died at 12:50 this morning about seven hours after the accident, in a Chicago hospital.

He was descending from his last contemplated flight of the day in the biplane which he personally developed, and which was expected to perform wonders in the aviation meet beginning today.

Twice during the afternoon he had made brilliant flights. On his last flight he had ascended to a height of about 900 feet and with the eyes of 1,000 spectators fixed upon him began his descent.

He descended in long, sweeping spirals until he was scarcely 200 feet from the ground. Suddenly something went wrong, and from the long, birdlike swoop the biplane suddenly swerved, quivered and then tipped sharply downward.

Peck struggled with his controls, and for an instant appeared to have regained the mastery of the air, but an instant later the machine dipped, and as the spectators groaned in horror, biplane and aviator dropped like a plummet.

With a crash that resounded all over the field the machine struck the ground, alighting head on. Peck was pinned under the wreckage with the heavy engine resting partly on his chest and neck. The wreckage was immediately cleared and Peck was rushed to the hospital in an automobile. He was unconscious and bleeding from a score of cuts made by the guys and splintered supports of his biplane.

Thousands of Rushville and Rush county will remember the thrilling exhibition of the mastery of the air by Col. Peck here the first day of last month. Throngs of people waited the whole afternoon patiently for Col. Peck to fly here from Connersville, where he was to give a flight the same afternoon. He finally arrived about six o'clock in the evening, but not until a good many had wended their way homeward, disappointed.

Those who waited were amply rewarded. In order to comply with his contract, although darkness was fast approaching, Col. Peck made two beautiful flights, exhibiting his marvelous control of the aircraft. He swerved the biplane about in the air, and it soared and dipped and raised like a bird on the wing.

Col. Peck was a very affable young man. He was quiet and unassuming, but was willing to talk of his work and ambitions when questioned. To newspaper men he told his plans for the winter which he intended to spend in the far west or the south. While here he anticipated the meet at Chicago.

That Col. Peck would eventually meet his death in his biplane was the prediction, even of his managers, because of his daring, for which reason he met such an untimely end yesterday. The director at Cicero field.

KOKOMO CROWD IS GOING

To Hear James E. Watson at Tipton County Seat Friday.

James E. Watson, former whip of the House, one of the most prominent men at the Republican convention, a statesman and an orator, will address the people of Tipton county and central Indiana at the Martz theater at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, September 13, says the Kokomo Tribune. There is no man in America better qualified to talk on national topics. Mr. Watson is a brilliant orator, a man who thoroughly knows his subject and many people from this county will hear his address.

WHOOPIING COUGH, THE CAUSE

The total enrollment of the Rushville public school is eight hundred and forty-five, a slight decrease as compared with the enrollment the first week last year. Of this total, a hundred and seventy-seven are enrolled in the high school and six hundred and sixty-eight in the grades. There are a few more high school pupils than there were the first week last year, this despite the fact that a number of high school students did not return this year.

The grade enrollment is expected to increase during the first month of school so that the total will be equal to if not greater than the first day enrollment last year. The decrease is due, school authorities believe, to the prevalence of whooping cough. Many pupils were kept away because school officials announced that none with the disease would be admitted. This was done to prevent an epidemic.

The heat has worked a hardship on the pupils this week, especially on those in the grades, and for this reason those in the grades have been dismissed every afternoon at two-thirty o'clock.

SAID TO HAVE TOTOED DYNAMITE ON CAR

Unknown Man Fails to Show up When I. & C. Crew Learns he Has Been Carrying Explosive.

If all reports be true an unknown man has been hauling dynamite on the 4:42 east bound I. & C. interurban car out of here to stop thirty-two, where he always got off every day for more than a week. The report could neither be denied or affirmed today as all of the traction officials were out of the city. It is said as soon as the crew learned what the man carried, which was yesterday afternoon, they watched for him to board the car, but he did not put in his appearance as usual.

The crew became suspicious of him when he got on the same car here every evening and got off at the same place, always with the same kind of a bundle. It is said he had the explosive packed in ice. There is a heavy penalty attached to carrying explosives on common carriers. The I. & C. will not carry any kind of an explosive, either by freight or by express.

PERRY M'CRORY DIES SUDDENLY

Well Known Farmer Succumbs From Heart Attack While Enroute Home From This City.

ALLS FROM SPRING WAGON

S. Morford and Raymond Nesbit Reach Him Too Late—Funeral Friday Afternoon.

Perry McCrory, 69 years old, a well known farmer living south of Grifflins, died suddenly from an attack of the heart yesterday afternoon about five o'clock while enroute home from this city. Mr. McCrory was riding in a spring wagon and fell to the ground when stricken.

F. S. Morford and Raymond Nesbit were in a buggy behind Mr. McCrory and saw him fall. They rushed to his side but he was dead before they reached him. Mr. McCrory had been in attendance at the Coleman sale and appeared to be in the usual health. He had reached the George Looney farm east of the city on his way home when stricken.

Coroner Shauck pronounced death due to heart trouble. Mr. McCrory while seemingly in the best of health was known to have been subject to heart attacks. His sudden death came as a great shock to his friends in this city and county.

Mr. McCrory was a native of Fayette county, being born there June 23, 1853. His father, William McCrory was a native of Ireland. He had been a resident of this county for many years. Mr. McCrory leaves a widow and three children, Fred, Ernest, and Mrs. Jesse Ridout.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at the late residence. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

WARNING AGAINST TYPHOID FEVER

Dr. J. N. Hurty Urges Prevention of Disease Which Will Take Large Toll This Fall.

AYS IT WILL BE FATAL TO 500

That at least 500 persons will die from typhoid fever in Indiana between now and December 31 is the rather startling prediction made by Dr. J. N. Hurty, state health commissioner. Mr. Hurty regards the typhoid fever situation so seriously that he has mailed a special bulletin on the subject to every quarter of the state, warning people to take precaution against insanitary conditions and the deadly fly. The estimate of the number of deaths which will occur during the remainder of the year is based on statistics compiled by the state health board. According to the estimate 125 deaths from typhoid will occur in the present month, 175 in October, 125 in November and 75 in December.

Already the health board has received reports showing that 125 deaths from typhoid occurred in the state in August. The state health board also publishes a special typhoid fever circular which will be sent free to any one who asks for it. The circular explains methods of preventing the approach of the disease.

DEATH IS RESULT OF AUTO MISHAP

C. H. Campbell of Shelbyville, Close Friend of James E. Watson and Other Local Men, Expires.

Pneumonia Develops and Causes His Demise—Prominent in Sixth District Politics.

The numerous friends here of Charles H. Campbell of Shelbyville, a manufacturer of furniture and well known in the politics of this district, were shocked to hear of his death in the Methodist hospital in Indianapolis, where he was taken after he was hurt in an automobile accident at the outskirts of Indianapolis Saturday night. Pneumonia developed from his injuries and caused his demise.

James E. Watson was probably the most intimate friend Charles Campbell had. A telegram was sent to the home of Mr. Watson here last evening immediately after the death of the Shelbyville man, but Mr. Watson had not yet arrived from New York city, where he had been the last week, nor did he arrive today so that an expression of his regret could not be had.

Mr. Campbell was a great admirer of the former congressman. He was a sincere believer in Mr. Watson's ability and aided him in any political aspirations he ever had, notable among the number being Mr. Watson's race for the nomination and election for governor in 1908. Although Mr. Campbell had Bull Moose inclinations in the last few months, he had often told the Rushville statesman, in the presence of others, that he would support him for any office from the presidency down.

Mr. Campbell was prominent as one of the Indiana leaders in the movement for the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for the presidency at the Republican national convention. When Indiana Roosevelt headquarters were opened in Indianapolis before the convention Mr. Campbell was put in charge of them, and worked hard for Mr. Roosevelt's success.

After the nomination of President Taft by the Republicans, Mr. Campbell said that he did not believe in the third party movement, but would vote for Mr. Roosevelt. After the organization of the Bull Moose party he did not take as prominent a part in the State work for Mr. Roosevelt as he had done before.

His death has caused expressions of regret from Albert J. Beveridge and other Bull Moose leaders and also prominent Republicans with whom he was formerly associated.

The automobile accident which resulted in Mr. Campbell's death occurred last Saturday night, following the Beveridge meeting in Indianapolis. Mr. Campbell, William H. Smith, Fred Buggie and Harry Antie of Shelbyville and Carl Mote of Indianapolis were in the machine enroute for Shelbyville.

When crossing the Big Four railroad crossing, the chauffeur failed to see an approaching locomotive, which struck the machine and threw out the occupants. All were injured, but Mr. Campbell was the only one taken to the hospital. One of his legs was badly mangled and the bone in his other was fractured.

Mr. Campbell was fifty-nine years old and was born in Lexington, Ind. He was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell, natives of Virginia. As he grew up he worked for a while with his father at the cabinet maker's trade, but gave this up to enter the employment of the Big Four Railway Company, serving

Miss Olive Traylor Leaves it in Front of I. & C. Station

Miss Olive Traylor, a teacher in the Connersville high school and formerly a high school instructor here, set a suit case down on the sidewalk in front of the I. & C. traction station one day recently while she bought a ticket to Connersville, and returned to find that it had been stolen. The loss is said to be small but the suit case contained several articles of value to Miss Traylor, including a good student's lamp. She has never found any trace of the grip. The theft was not reported to the police.

HERE TO INSPECT SIGNAL SYSTEMS

Joe R. Ong, Formerly of Rushville, is Employed by Wisconsin State Railway Commission.

GOES WITH PARTY OVER I. & C.

Joe R. Ong of Madison, Wisconsin, formerly of this city, where he was graduated from the high school, is here on a brief visit while in Indiana inspecting interurban signal systems in the interest of the Wisconsin railway commission by which he is employed. Yesterday Mr. Ong was with a party of men composed of representatives of electric railway magazines and others interested in electric railway matters, headed by Charles L. Henry, president of the Indiana & Cincinnati Traction company, which inspected the Simmen system which is installed between the junction and Fairland on the Shelbyville division of the I. & C.

Mr. Ong says that his principal duties are inspecting the street car and interurban systems of Wisconsin where the State law compels the electric railways to have an adequate supply of cars to take care of the traffic and freight business.

HEAT HAS BEEN FATAL TO HORSES

COOL WAVE RELIEF TO OWNERS

Probably no people are any more thankful for the drop in temperature than are the owners of horses in this city and county. The protracted heat wave has been very hard on this class of domestic animals, and has resulted in the death of a number in the county. It is said that no less than fifty have dropped dead from the heat in the last two weeks. This is according to a report from the veterinary southwest of the city.

The flies have aided in making the hot weather obnoxious and fatal to many beasts of burden. The kind of flies which are worrying the horses now are said to be the very worst kind. They set the animal wild, and in many instances, in an effort to knock the flies off, the horses have overexerted themselves and have been overcome with the heat.

Had the heat continued, it was barely possible that many farmers would have worked at night as soon as the new moon appears. In this way they could do away with the heat of the sun's rays and the flies as well.

IS WELL FITTED FOR HER TASK

Miss Parshall, Worker Among Women and Girls, Will be Here With Dr. Biedervolf.

DURING THE COMING REVIVAL

Story of Her Life Work Indicates She Has Training Necessary—Pleasing Personality.

Very few women are better fitted for their work than Miss Parshall, who is Dr. Biedervolf's assistant, in the work among women and girls, and who will assist him here during the county wide evangelistic campaign which begins Sunday, September 22. Not only training is necessary, but a particular personality as well.

She was born in Corry, Penn., but her early girlhood has been in Tidoute, Penn. Her early plans and ideals were for a life devoted to music, for she had exceptional musical ability. With this thought in view, after considerable post-graduate work in the high school, she spent two years in Boston, the seat of musical learning in our country, studying pipe organ and piano. During this time she served in some of the leading churches around Boston. All the time she could possibly spare from her musical duties she spent in actual Christian service, both in her local church and in county and Presbyterian Sunday school and young people's work.

Successful as she was in her musical work, the time came when she felt impelled to give up the profession

of music and devote her time entirely to work for Christ. To prepare for efficient service, Miss Parshall entered the Moody Bible Institute, at Northfield, Mass. After some months spent there, she accepted a position as pastor's assistant in the First Presbyterian church at Bradford, Penn., remaining there one year.

Dr. Biedervolf met Miss Parshall during one of his meetings in Hutchinson, Kan., where she was assistant to the Rev. Hugh T. Kerr, pastor of one of the strongest Presbyterian churches in the State.

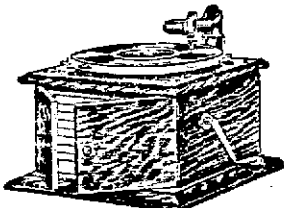

After three years of hard work in Chicago to pursue special Bible and doctrinal studies in the Moody Institute, and to do practical Christian work in the hospitals, factories, jails, and rescue homes for girls, fitting herself for greater service in leading men and women to Jesus Christ.

Dr. Biedervolf happened to be holding meeting in the Moody church where he met Miss Parshall again; he immediately engaged her as one of his assistants in his meetings.

In Piqua Miss Parshall has been holding meetings in the shops and factories during the noon hour. She has interested the girls from the high school in weekly meetings and is responsible for the increased Christian activity of many of the young women

Every White Man In Cumming Is Under Arms.

Cumming, Ga., Sept. 12.—Cumming and vicinity are in a state of terror over fears of a negro rising. Following the lynching of Ed Collins for alleged complicity in the assault and murder of Miss Alma Crow, there were threats that the negroes would burn the town. These threats alarmed the whites and the alarm was increased when two buildings were discovered on fire. The whites are confident the buildings were fired by negroes. Reports that the negroes were arming several miles south of Cumming for an attack on the place increased the anxiety and resulted in a sort of martial law being proclaimed.

Every white man in town is under arms and pickets are stationed on every road leading into town. Troops are held in readiness at Marietta and Gainesville to be rushed here at the first sign of trouble.

The negroes especially resent the lynching of eighteen-year-old Ed Collins, who they say knew nothing of the outrage and murder of Miss Crow. Ernest Cox, who confessed the crime, has been taken to Atlanta, where the eight negroes concerned in the assault on Mrs. Wesley Hodges, the wife of a planter, were also taken for safe keeping.

C. A. R. Veterans March.
Los Angeles, Sept. 12.—Twelve thousand veterans marched here in the annual parade of the national C. A. R. encampment. It required more than three hours for the procession to pass and 200,000 spectators lined the curb or were massed on buildings and reviewing stands.

An Unprecedented Cereal Crop.
Washington, Sept. 12.—The cereal crops of the country from present indications will reach the unprecedented total production of 133,016,000 tons, according to Victor H. Olmsted, chief of the department of agriculture's bureau of statistics.

A NEW FEATURE OF SZABO CASE

Evidence of Jiu Jitsu Disclosed at Inquest.

Testimony of Coroner's Physician as to Means by Which Mrs. Szabo Was Rendered Helpless Before Her Body Went into Waters of Greenwood Lake Convinced Court That There Is a Strong Case Against Lawyer.

New York, Sept. 12.—Only after District Attorney Rogers had laid a strong first-hand case of murder before him, did County Judge Royce of Middletown issue the warrant charging Burton W. Gibson with the murder of Mrs. Rose Menschik Szabo. Dr. Otto H. Schultze, coroner's physician of Manhattan, who assisted at the autopsy, swore before the court that Mrs. Szabo died by asphyxiation by strangulation and not by asphyxiation by submersion, which would have been the case if she had been drowned when she fell out of the boat on Greenwood lake, July 16. In other words, the physician, who has conducted many autopsies, swore that Mrs. Szabo was so injured before she went into the water on that day, that she never breathed after she had sunk below the surface of the water. The testimony of the surgeon injected into the case a new feature of murder, which combines the Japanese jiu jitsu with an expert knowledge of anatomy and physiology.

According to the surgeon, before Mrs. Szabo went out of the boat on that day, she received a sharp blow on the throat which so affected the laryngeal nerve as to close her air passages, making it impossible for her to breathe. The fact that she had never drawn breath after she was struck was shown by the fact that although she was in the water, there was not a single sign of water in her lungs. She stopped breathing before she fell and died in consequence.

In his further testimony Dr. Schultze testified that the blow which was delivered at the apex of the throat, just under the chin, might have been a single sharp application of the thumb by a man who knew absolutely what he was doing, or it could have been done by the use of several fingers of the hand applied for an instant. Expert knowledge was the only thing necessary. Once the pressure was properly applied there was no further work to be done. The woman would go overboard, sink without a struggle and die without ever taking a breath.

To Prove Will's Forgery.
Vienna, Sept. 12.—Franz Menschik, one of the brothers of Mrs. Szabo, who was drowned in Greenwood lake, New Jersey, last July, is rushing to New York for the purpose of giving evidence in the case. He will testify that he was present at the death at Rudolfshelm, on Feb. 9, 1910, of his mother, Petronella Menschik, who, he says, was never in Chicago. This it is expected will prove that the will which Lawyer Gibson produced is a forgery.

WILL PROBABLY DIE

White Wife of Jack Johnson Shoots Herself in the Head.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Etta Johnson, white wife of Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, attempted to commit suicide last night by shooting herself in the head with a revolver. The woman was alone in the apartments over Johnson's cafe when she tried to end her life. She was taken to the Provident hospital, where it was announced that the wound probably would cause her death.

Johnson was in the cafe below talking to several friends when a pistol shot was heard. He ran upstairs and found his wife lying on the floor of her bedroom. Blood was streaming from a bullet wound in her head and she was unconscious. Except for an attack of nervousness Johnson was unable to assign any motive for his wife's attempt to end her life. "There was no trouble between us," Johnson told the police. Mrs. Johnson was formerly the wife of Herman Duryea, racing man, and in her youthful days was noted for her beauty.

Broods Over Loss of Leg.
Frankfort, Ind., Sept. 12.—William Camp, aged sixteen, committed suicide at his home south of the city by hanging himself. The deceased was a rich bachelor. He left a note saying he had killed himself because he could not keep from worrying over the loss of one of his legs, which was injured so badly last year that it was necessary to amputate.

Injuries Terminated Fatally.
Indianapolis, Sept. 12.—Charles H. Campbell, a well known Shelbyville manufacturer, is dead at the Methodist hospital here as the result of injuries received Saturday night when an automobile in which he was riding was struck by a locomotive at the English avenue crossing in this city.

Asquith and McKenna Lose Interest In Golf Game.

Glasgow, Sept. 12.—Mary Howie and Mrs. Mitchell, the two suffragettes who pestered Winston Churchill at Aberdeen last week, cornered Premier Asquith and Home Secretary McKenna while they were golfing at Dornoch. The women rushed up and began berating the prime minister for the treatment of two suffragettes who were sentenced to five years' penal servitude by a Dublin court for attempting to burn the Theater Royal at that place.

Mr. McKenna is reported to have seized Miss Howie and a struggle followed, while Mrs. Mitchell continued to harangue Mr. Asquith. The detective who accompanies the prime minister and is responsible for his safety rushed to the scene and seized Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. McKenna handed over Miss Howie to his care. The efforts of the officer to hold both women were fruitless. First one and then the other shook herself free and continued railing at the ministers. It is stated that Mr. Asquith appealed to some caddies standing by to help the detective, but they did not respond. Premier Asquith then told the detective to secure Miss Howie, as she was worse than the other woman, and then walked away, accompanied by Mr. McKenna. Mrs. Mitchell followed on their heels and kept up her abuse of the two ministers until a policeman arrived and led her off.

LITTLE LEEWAY

Ten Minutes After Passengers Got Off, Steamer Sank.

New York, Sept. 12.—The steamship Perseus of the Iron Steamboat company struck a rock last night while returning from Donnelly's College Point Grove and stove a hole in her side, far beneath the water line.

On board she had about 1,700 members of the Hudson County Democratic of Jersey City. The vessel put back to shore while the club members busied themselves putting on life preservers.

Ten minutes after the passengers had left the boat she sank alongside of the College Point dock.

NEGRO RESENTS THE COLOR LINE

Barred From Whites' Water Cooler He Shoots.

RACE TRAGEDY AT PRINCETON

In the Roundhouse There Separate Water Coolers Had Been Provided For White and Colored Employees—Walter Lively, a Young Colored Man, Ordered to Keep Away From White Men's Tank, Shoots Foreman.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 12.—Walter Lively, aged twenty, colored, shot and probably fatally wounded Jesse Coleman, aged twenty-five, white, at the Southern railroad roundhouse here. The negro was captured at Huntington and brought back. There are separate water coolers for the white and colored employees at the roundhouse. Lively had been using the tank for whites and had been warned several times. He was ordered to use the other tank, and after some words quit work. He went to his home at Patoka, four miles away, got his revolver, returned to the shops and, after exchanging a word or two with Coleman, a foreman, fired twice. The first bullet struck Coleman in the shoulder and the second in the back.

GOT AWAY AGAIN

Young Forger, Wanted at Frankfort, Eludes Louisville Police.

Frankfort, Ind., Sept. 12.—Beyond doubt it has been proved that the young man who tried to forge checks on a Louisville bank and who was caught, but later jumped his bond, is no other than Orvil Hodson, the young man wanted in this city for collecting $3,500 on Aug. 12, on forged checks on the First National and American National banks, and also wanted in Indianapolis. Since Hodson has been at large rewards have been offered for his capture, still he has so far successfully escaped all officers. He appeared at a bank in Louisville and attempted to use the same name and amounts that he used in this city. He was caught after a short chase, but when taken to police headquarters was released on a cash bond of $300. He failed to appear at the trial and is again on his way to freedom.

The bank officials in this city are not slow in criticizing the authorities at Louisville for their bad work in handling Hodson. Since his work here pictures and descriptions of Hodson have been sent over the country. Pinkerton detectives, Burns detectives and the bank associations of the country have offered rewards for his capture. A representative of one of the banks that suffered at the hands of Hodson stated that there was evidence of crooked work in regard to the escaping of Hodson all the time and action would be taken soon along that line.

EXTORTION CHARGED

The Latest Phase of Miss Brooks's Fight at West Hammond.

Hammond, Ind., Sept. 12.—As a result of Miss Virginia Brooks's charges that in West Hammond vice has been allowed to flourish, that offenders have been freed by the authorities, and that men have met mysterious deaths in resorts there, charges of malfeasance in office, extortion and conspiracy have been filed against Justice Frank Green of West Hammond, and Justice Wittenburg of Burnham, a nearby village.

An additional charge of embezzlement has been placed against Green for his alleged failure to turn over to the public $163 collected in fines.

Governor the Central Figure.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 12.—Governor Marshall was the central figure of the second day of the Fort Wayne fair. A reception committee of prominent Democrats met him at the railroad station and with the Jefferson club and drum and bugle corps as an escort, there was a parade through the downtown district of the city before the governor boarded a special streetcar for the fair ground. Prominent in the parade were scores of the governor's Columbia City friends who came on a special train to participate in the Marshall day exercises at the fair.

Ordered Schools Closed.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 12.—Every public school in Logansport was closed by order of the city board of health. Inspection by health officers revealed buildings in insanitary condition and students are compelled to drink unfiltered river water. The school board was ordered to keep the schools closed until the buildings are thoroughly renovated and a proper water supply is furnished. Twenty schools are affected.

Renominated by Acclamation.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Congressman Martin A. Morrison of Frankfort was renominated by acclamation by the Democrats of the Ninth district in their convention here.

Progressive Nominee For Congress.
Boonville, Ind., Sept. 12.—Progressives of the First district in convention here nominated H. C. Heidt, a hardware dealer of Oakland City, for congress.

COL. W. T. DURBIN SOUNDS KEY-NOTE

Opens Republican State Campaign With Great Speech at Marion.

STATE ISSUES ARE DISCUSSED

He Shows Up Democratic Extravagance in the Handling of Indiana's Financial Affairs.

Marion, Ind., Sept. 12.—Col. Winfield T. Durbin, Republican nominee for Governor of Indiana, opened his campaign here today. In his keynote speech he said:

Nearly fifty years ago, as a boy, I answered the call of Abraham Lincoln and Oliver P. Morton, and offered all that I had to give in behalf of my country.

Fifteen years ago the call of patriotic duty came again, and answering the summons of William McKinley and James A. Mount, I served my state and my country as best I could so long as my services as a soldier were required.

There came to me on August 6th a

COL. WINFIELD T. DURBIN,
Nominee for Governor.

call from my party—the party of Lincoln and Morton, McKinley and Mount—which it seemed to me at the time, and seems to me now, to be as much a call to patriotic duty as the summons of the sixties and nineties.

I do not believe I am wrong when I say that there never was a time when it was more important for the citizens of Indiana and of the nation to stand firm for the foundation principles of republican government, and to "hold fast to that which is good."

A Call to Duty.

I did not seek the task of being the standard bearer of Indiana republicanism in this campaign. The call came to me from my party—and grateful for the honors it has conferred upon me in the past, it found me ready today, as it did in the earlier years, to lead in this fight as willingly as I would have followed some other leader. May my tongue cling to the roof of my mouth and my right hand forget its cunning before I malign the great party organization that has so signally honored me, or strike a blow at the party of Lincoln and Grant, McKinley and Harrison, Morton and Sherman, so long as it remains true to the principles of historic republicanism, which it has not deserted.

The Republican Record.

I deem this call to duty especially binding because it came from what I believe was the best republican convention held in the state of Indiana for a third of a century.

The republican state organization in Indiana ten years ago adopted the policy of refusing to accept contributions from corporations having interests at stake in legislation or administration.

I wish to say further that Indiana during the twelve years of republican supremacy stood among the foremost of the states in matters of legislation and administration. The republican party in this state is in touch with the forward movement in political and economic thought. Its platform for 1912 is both progressive and sane.

To serve again as governor of Indiana would mean no new honor to me. I have been governor once. It would mean no more to be governor twice, except as an opportunity for further service to the people. I am not in this campaign inspired by personal ambition. But with the responsibility of candidacy upon my shoulders, standing upon a splendid platform with every plank of which I am in full accord, I am in this fight to win. In my time I have seen a good many politicians who claimed to love the people better than anyone else loved them, and I have never seen one who was worthy of the confidence of the people. Men do not find their best friends among panders and flatterers, nor do the people. The politician who is willing to sacrifice his convictions in order to gain the favor of the people will as readily sacrifice the people whenever some more valuable consideration is offered. And here I wish to say that in judging a candidate for office, judge him by his record and not by his promises; not by what he says he would do if he had the power, but by what he did do when he had the power. And never trust any candidate for office who claims a monopoly of all the wisdom, all the patriotism, all the intelligence that is given to candidates. Some great trusts have been formed in this country, some especially big ones came into being before President Taft began applying the civil and criminal laws to them, but there has never yet been a trust formed which was able to secure such a monopoly as that.

A Challenge to Prosperity.

We confront on the other hand the challenge offered by the democratic party, under the leadership of Professor Wilson and Governor Marshall, to the legislative policies under which this nation has experienced a half century of the most marvelous progress and prosperity known in the history of the world—prosperity only once seriously interrupted, and that was during a brief period of temporary abandonment of those policies.

We can get 1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896 over again, fellow citizens, by committing the crime of 1892 over again—and we can help in the recommitment of that crime simply by voting against the administration now in power, the policies now in effect, the prosperity that is now prevalent.

I have never been able to understand how a politician spouting hot air was any more valuable to a community, a state or a nation, than a manufacturing establishment, paying good wages and furnishing the means of livelihood to its employees. In my opinion, the man who declares that in the adjustment of the tariff is to be found a solution of the trust question is either deceiving himself, or seeking to deceive the people.

We, the American people, and especially we, the people of Indiana, are more prosperous today than we have ever been before, more prosperous than the people of any country at any time have ever been.

This is the condition we are asked to risk by a change in our national policies at this time.

Don't Pass Prosperity Up.

"Pass prosperity around" cries someone else. You can't pass prosperity around by passing prosperity up. One of two men will be elected president in November—Wilson or Taft. A vote for Roosevelt is a half vote for Wilson. This is a practical political fact that will soon be universally admitted.

I long have stood for revision downward along protective lines myself—but who is to pay the bill for billion dollar sessions if a tariff bill is framed that will bring in insufficient revenue, as did the Wilson bill at a time when the cost of national government was less than half what it is today?

A Riot of Waste.

What is true of Washington is true in lesser degree of Indianapolis; what is true of Indianapolis is true of your counties and your townships, your towns and your municipalities. I believe the time has come for retrenchment and reform in the transaction of public business. If elected governor of Indiana I pledge the people of Indiana to transact their business in the light of these declarations.

The State Debt.

It is a rather singular fact, but one confirmed by the record that up to the close of the administration of my successor, Governor Hanly, beginning with Oliver P. Morton in 1861, every republican governor of this state reduced the state debt during his administration—every democratic governor increased it. To my lot fell the honor of paying more of the state debt than any other governor in the history of Indiana.

In the management of the financial affairs of Indiana the republican party has made good. The three administrations, commencing with that of the late Governor Mount, and closing with that of ex-Governor Hanly, are alike entitled to the praise of the citizens of this commonwealth for their fidelity to the taxpayers' interests in redeeming the bonded indebtedness of the state and for the successful effort at all times to redeem. As a concrete example of the workings of the fee system, the democratic attorney general's emoluments amounted to over $84,000 during his term, and then some, while under the republican measure, by fixing a definite sum of $7,500 per year, and converting the fees into the treasury this is the amount substantially given attorney's general for twelve years' service. And so in the larger counties of the state, and in other offices, this ratio of savings to the taxpayer, resulted.

The republican party is a debt-paying party. It takes no stock now, and never has, in the theory that it is easier to pay interest than principal. Away back in 1860, it came into a democratic inheritance upon its assumption of the state's administration, of a debt of $10,197,167. A comparison of the resources and population of the state at that time, with that of thirty-five years later, when the republican party was more recently called into power, would give some idea of its burden, and every dollar of it represented mismanagement, incapacity, and the fruits of extravagance.

False Democratic Claim.

Democratic sophomores claim that their party legislature of 1891 passed the tax law, and that it was a remedial measure of simon pure democratic origin. The truth of history is the democratic platform of 1890, was silent as to any provisions for state debt payments, and the action of the legislature was spurred by the vigorous language of the republican platform, supplemented by the growing indignation of the people, and the aggressive insistence looking to a remedy for the chaotic but natural democratic financial policy. Now, as to the facts. The tax law as in substance it stands, today, was reported unanimously in the senate; there was no party division; and it was not enacted, as democratic speakers have told, and will continue to tell you, over republican opposition. It is a forceful, practical, revenue producing law, has been ironed out from time to time by the amendments of recent legislatures, and has been modeled after in some of its features by a number of other states. As one of my ex-officio duties, while governor of the state, I had the honor to preside over the board, and at all times have upheld the excellence of the law in its relations to the taxpayers of the state. In their hysteria, democratic orators not only claim this law as the child of democratic parentage, but that it had transferred burdens from the agricultural claims to the corporations, when the facts are the initial increased assessment of the tax board was $36,005,206 on corporations, while the increases on lands and improvements was $152,261,225, of lots and improvements, $93,401,304, and of personal property, $56,014,458. Less than one-fourth was on corporations, while the tax levy was increased 30 per cent, and just simply as a matter of correction to these dreamland assertions of democratic speakers, that from 1894, the year the board by statute came under republican control, to the end of my term as governor, the increase of corporation assessments was 21 per cent, and farm lands and improvements 10 1/2 per cent. It is foreign to the letter and spirit of the law that its acts in any sense should be squared by politics, and any elaboration I have given proceeds from a purpose to present the facts in refutation of the false democratic claim of parentage.

Figures Are Submitted.
I now submit some figures comparing the financial record of my administration as Governor with the financial record of Governor Marshall's democratic administration.

Payment of state debt principal during Durbin's four years:

1901	$ 500,000.00
1903	450,000.00
1904	535,000.00
Total	$2,802,000.00

Same during Gov. Marshall's term:

1909	$ 2,923.25
1910	37,501.80
1911	100,000.00
1912	150,000.00
Total	$230,000.00
Average per year	$57,500.00

Interest paid on public debt during Durbin's four years:

1901	$ 157,130.22
1902	120,596.04
1903	109,134.80
1904	89,665.50
Total	$466,526.56
Average per year	$116,631.64

Same during Gov. Marshall's three years:

1909	$ 57,027.75
1910	61,512.75
1911	64,437.31
Total	$182,978.01

The four years' debt payments of the republican administration reduced substantially the liability of the succeeding democratic administration.

Advance payments by county treasurers during Durbin's four years:

1901	$ 794,270.56
1902	952,326.59
1903	1,104,236.53
1904	1,010,021.71
Total	$3,860,855.39
Average per year	$965,213.85

Same during Marshall's first three years:

1909	$1,277,434.20
1911	1,929,569.02
Total	$4,395,393.22
Average per year	$1,465,131.07

About Advance Payments.
The republican position as to advance payments from county treasurers was that the state's share of taxes when collected while arbitrarily payable at the semi-annual settlements with the auditor of state, was from its collection an asset of the state.

In this connection I digress in reply to an article published several days ago in the Indianapolis Star, by a correspondent, who evidently with considerable unction rehearsed a criticism by my successor, Governor J. Hanly, in his inaugural address. In 1904 the owners of $285,000 3 1/2 per cent. bonds due in 1915 offered them to the state on a 3 per cent. basis. The state board of finance took up the question as to whether these bonds should be then paid and the interest saved to the state for a period of eleven years, amounting to about $85,000. The payment of the bonds on the 3 per cent. basis was ordered. The wisdom of this transaction, and the accuracy of the estimates, are proven by the fact that the year, 1895, ended with a balance to the general fund of $233,998.34. The state saved $85,000 in interest by making the payment at that time, and the treasury was not cramped for money during my successor's administration.

I submit this was the part of financial economy and wisdom, and would have been duplicated by any bank or financial agency in the transaction of its own affairs.

More Comparisons.

State Bureau of Inspection
For the alleged purpose of bettering the service and conditions surrounding factories and employees, the state bureau of inspection was created. The year 1910, was the last full year of the old department of inspection, the state labor commission and the state mine inspector. In that year the cost of these departments was $29,918.55. The state board of inspection has not yet been in operation a full fiscal year and we can only take the provision of the act as the basis of its cost. The act, true to democratic practices, provides for a big chief, inspectors, etc., etc., with a salary list of $33,800 as a starter.
There are fifteen assistants and three inspectors provided for, a total of eighteen men, whose all around duty
is to "inspect," and these patriotic gentlemen with their traveling and incidental expenses will make an annual additional expenditure of right
at $50,000.
The master purpose seems to have been particularly to legislate fourteen republicans out of office and make places for twenty-five democrats.
County Local Option.
There is no question in which the people of this state are today as deeply and as vitally interested as the problem of control of the liquor traffic. In my last message to the legislature, submitted nearly eight years ago, I called attention to the growing feeling among the people of the state that the liquor traffic should be held to a stricter accountability, and warned the liquor interests that persistence in the course they had apparently adopted would result in the rapid increase of that sentiment. In the light of what has since happened in Indiana that expression now seems prophectic. Even the opposition party, subservient as it is to brewery control,
was driven two years ago from its historic attitude against sumptuary legislation to a declaration in favor of local option with the township and city as the unit. I submit that the acceptance of local option in any form is in itself a complete justification of county local option—for there is but one logical unit of local government affecting an institution that must be dealt with by county officials, and that is the county unit. The theory that the farmer has no legitimate interests
in that which exists at the county seat, where and for which in part he must pay his taxes, where he must transact much of his business, where his children must go, and from which they may come bearing the marks of the saloon upon them, is untenable.
Even the law written by the brewery attorneys for enactment by the last legislature recognizes the legitimate authority of the county by providing a county as well as a town and city license.
The complaint is made that the liquor question, the saloon question, has no place in politics. I answer that the liquor interests of Indiana put this question into politics, and they have kept it there.
County local option was adopted as republican platform principle four years ago. A republican legislature placed a county local option law upon the statute books; a republican governor signed it. I believed two years ago that the republican party

favor the ultimate attainment of the principles we advocate by legislation that will not injure or destroy legiti-mate industry."

And Mr. Wilson is already telling the people of the country that while he believes in ultimate free trade, in taking off every duty that is not necessary for revenue, yet he would go about it very gradually and kill only one industry at a time. The American people should by this time be wise to such proceedings. They have had two doses of this kind of medicine and we do not believe that they will accept the statement of the free trade party or the free trade candidate that if successful they will injure no American industry. The only way to prevent history repeating itself is to re-elect Mr. Taft and the Republican congress and then there will be no doubt that an American workman will lose his job or any American farmer his market.

Cook, the Poet Second Baseman, Writes Jingles About Ball Team

(By Ed Cook.)

Old central boys with many Christians,
Came to Rushville with great intentions
For McGuire and Shook they each got there's
And to there followers sure brought tears.

To win a game and beat old Chic,
Every team will have to go a lick.
He's mighty skinny and powerfully
tall
But can throw a ball, thro any size wall.

Every team that comes here thinks
we're pickens,
But I'm here to state that they take home the lickens.
Just look at the games that we have won
and at Maibaugh, how he's brought home the MON.

The boys on our team never raise a holler
For the're out there to earn the almighty dollar.
They work with their might, and all their skill
And thro this they intend to keep Maibaugh's good will.

To each boy on our team I'm going to make
A little verse in rhyme for old time sake.

Now don't get angry, nor don't feel blue
Of anything that I may say of you.

Of course we wouldn't dare to begin
Unless we brought our manager in
To see and enjoy the story Cinderella;
Next Sunday just look under the large umbrella.

A little fellow, his name I'll not mention
His work on the field draws quite an attention
His posture is quite like that of an ox,
For he's got plenty of pepper from the old pepper box.

Now Bobby, old "Pep" has for a mate
A boy with a record as clean as a state.
Of this young fellow no one must kick,
No pitcher as yet has a record like Chic.

A benched legged fellow there is on third
Who hops around the bag like a broken wing bird.
To lead off at bat and the game to begin
This job depends on old Johnny Finn.

The short stop position is a place
very hard Both to the player and keeper of score card.
Now Eddie Carter whose the light of
our soul,
Does a mighty good job in filling this hole.

Now next to Carter we have a riddle fellow, who says he plays second fiddle.
On Sunday while out there just down that way look
And don't be surprised to find our old friend Cook.

A lad we have from Connersville,
Dark complexioned against his will
For when it comes to playing first base
No other one there except Thomas'
face.

Our out field trio are surely there
They generally catch balls that come through the air.
With running catches and quick return
A loud applaase from the crowd they earn.

Now Halty the boy with the little blue cap,
Has placed old Moscow upon the map.
He's a boy that never quits and never whines
To earn five extra he tries for the sign.

A Tyrus Cobb we have in center,
The crowd goes crazy when he enters.
A peculiar cuss is this old man
For a home he's won with many a fan.

A trio, for right in a race very hot Between old Chance, Coombs and Scott.
All three of these players are very good
And are there when it comes to weilding the wood.

Our Scotty boy has a peculiar manner
And on his bat, carries a Rushville banner.

He's a boy that's timid for his legs
to show,
For in his ball suit, his pants hangs
low.

I guess the team I have all mentioned
nything said was with good intention.
A couple of words to several more
And at me I hope they'll not get sore.

Just look at the fellow at the old grandstand
No nicer boy than this gentleman
To Alex. he went, his fellow brothers
to whip
In order to win K. A secretaryship.

There's Hiner the reporter of the "Republican" fame,
Who records all the dope on our old
ball game,
He gets all the errors and the plays
that are made
As he sits under the Brella in the nice cool shade.

Now Perry our Umpire, he certainly works hard
As an inventor he's there with a new
score card.
If this a success, a million he'll save
No other man's face he ever will shave.

The Scanlon hotel is a mighty good house
From top to bottom there's not a louse.
The trouble I find is, that it is to small
To accommodate the boys that come to play ball.

I guess I'll quit as I'm tired
For if I don't, I'm sure to get fired.
The Company I work for won't stand
for such tricks,
There after good service and not gold bricks.

HAS SOME BEARING 300 ROOTERS IN SHELBY COUNTY COMING SUNDAY

Decision of Judge Blair Would Keep Treasurer There From Drawing $600 Annually.

FOR COLLECTING CITY TAXES

The decision of Judge Blair that Alvan Moor, former county treasurer, should not be paid for collecting city taxes has some bearing in Shelby county, as the office of city treasurer was abandoned about two years ago, and since then Bert McDonald, county treasurer, and Frank Fagel, county auditor, have been doing the work. The treasurer of the county is paid $600 a year by the city for the collection of city taxes and the auditor is paid $100 a year by the city for making out the tax duplicate.

Before the office of city treasurer was abandoned, the treasurer collected the city taxes and with the city clerk made up the tax duplicate. The legislature changed the law and provided that the county treasurer should be the tax collector not only for the county but for the cities and incorporated towns as well. It was provided that the auditor should prepare the tax duplicate. The new law fails to make any provision for extra pay for the county officials, but an ordinance was passed by the council providing that the treasurer be paid $600 and the auditor $100.

Special Train From Newcastle Will Carry Crowd of Maxwell Supporters For Game Here.
ERECTING EXTRA SEATS
Arrangements Being Made to Take Care of Large Crowd—Dave Anderson Signed For Outfield.

The game Sunday with the Maxwell team of Newcastle, champions of the Indiana State League, continues to be the main topic of conversation on the streets of the city. Rushville is as near base ball crazy as it ever gets and one of the largest crowds of the season will be out for the game.

Manager Maibaugh is preparing to take care of the large crowd and is erecting a section of bleacher seats to accommodate 500 fans. The seats will be placed along the first base and right field lines and will give the spectators a clear view of the field.

The locals are expecting a hard game, if not harder than the one last Sunday, which was lost 4 to 3 in ten innings. The team is in good condition and is confident of beating the Maxwells. Manager Maibaugh will strengthen his team but little as he believes he has a ball team that can beat Newcastle. A new face will be seen in the outfield. He has signed Dave Anderson, a brother of Bob Anderson, Rushville's catcher, for an outfield position. The rest of the line-up will remain the same with Jarvey Utrecht in the box.

Word from Newcastle is to the effect that Dal Williams is expecting to take the second game of the series. The Maxwells will bring 300 rooters. The Newcastle Courier says concerning the game:

Dal Williams, manager of the Maxwell base ball club yesterday completed arrangements for the base ball special on the L. E. & W. to Rushville next Sunday to carry his team and the fans who will accompany it. It is expected that at least 300 Maxwell supporters will go to Rushville to participate in the rooting. The train will leave Newcastle at 12 o'clock and returning will leave Rushville about 6 o'clock. The fare for the round trip will be $1.

Williams had his big squad of players out for practice Tuesday night and is rounding the bunch into shape for the Rushville series. The workout showed every player to be in form, especially Catcher Riley who was the sensation of last Sunday's contest. Riley will spend the winter in this city and will establish a home here in which will be quartered his wife and his mother. He will be employed at the Maxwell factory.

Arch Riley, the premier third baseman of the Indiana league, who has been with the Indianapolis club, arrived in Newcastle Tuesday. He has been paid off for the season by Indianapolis and next Monday will go to Columbus to enter Ohio university. Riley will be a frequent visitor to Newcastle during the coming winter as his mother and brother will reside here.

SOCIETY NOTES.

A called meeting of the Juanita club will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Tucker in West Tenth street, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Poston, living southeast of the city entertained at dinner Wednesday in honor of her sister, Mrs. Agnes Cook of Indianapolis, the following guests, Mrs. Ora Logan and daughter, Nellie, Mrs. Ed Perkins and daughters, Lavonne and Cora, Mrs. J. Perkins and son, Carl, Mrs. Agnes Cook and daughter, Mildred.

The Epworth League of the St. Paul M. E. church will entertain Friday night at the home of Miss Mary Carr, corner of Fifth and Perkins street in honor of the young people of the city who will leave soon for the various colleges and universities. The event promises to be a very unique affair as the guests have been asked to appear in a make-up to represent an illness. It is expected many bandages will be in evidence.

JURY MUSTLY TAFT.

The jury in the Nelson-Johnson account suit, which was out about five hours last night in circuit court, by way of diversion, took a straw vote by a secret ballot on the presidential race. Six stood for Taft, five for Wilson and one for Roosevelt. The Bull Moosey refused to divulge his name, although he, whoever he was, was the subject of much raillery.

town Lived at Williamstown.

According to the Greensburg News, the body of the man who dropped dead in Knightstown last Sunday evening and which is still unclaimed was John Monroe, who, for a number of years, spent his winters in the old tile works at Williamstown. He was a very religious man, putting in faith in the Quaker belief, and he is spoken of in the highest terms by the people of the north part of Decatur county. A few months ago, before going to Knightstown, where he was to follow his vocation as a tinner, he showed Walter Hite a paid up life insurance policy, and at the same time told him of owning real estate in Shelbyville.

WAS HAULED TO JAIL.

Will Mitchell was arrested this afternoon by Chief McAllister for drunkenness. Mitchell was found in an alley and was hauled to jail by Joe Lakin. He will be tried tomorrow morning.

FOUND FOR DEFENDANT.

Squire Kratzer found in favor of the defendant in the $45 damage suit of Schantz vs. O'Reilly, tried yesterday. Ed Schantz alleged that one of O'Reilly's cows was on the road and that he ran into it smushing his buggy. It was brought out that O'Reilly was not at fault because the wire fence had been cut.

MEMBER OF BAR DEAD.

Charles S. Butler, age seventy-six, a veteran of the civil war, died at his home in Knightstown Tuesday evening. He is survived by two sons. He was a member of the Henry county bar.

Laella and William Scott brought a partition suit against Nellie H. Scott and others in the circuit court today.

Charles H. Alger filed suit in the circuit court today against Warren W. Robbins, demanding $306 on a note.

JURY OUT ABOUT 5 HOURS

Returns Judgment of $25.50 For J. O. Nelson—19 Ballots.

After being out almost five hours, a jury in circuit court returned judgment for $25.50 for J. O. Nelson against Lafayette Johnson, who purchased a corn planter from Nelson, a former Carthage merchant, and refused to pay for it because he said it was not as guaranteed. The costs were assessed against the plaintiff. The jury cast nineteen ballots, it is said. The case of Alvan Moor against the city of Rushville for $450 for salary for collecting city taxes, which was decided against Mr. Moor the other day, was dismissed today.

CHAPTER I.

The Vanishing Portrait.
Evelyn Grayson, meeting me on the old Boston Post Road, between Greenwich and Stamford, gave me a message from her uncle. That is the logical beginning of this story; though to make everything quite clear from the start it may be better to hark back a few months, to the day on which Evelyn Grayson and I first met.

Then, as now, we were each driving
our own car; she, a great sixty horsepower machine, all glistening pale yellow,
and I, a compact six-cylinder racer, of dull dusty gray. But we were not on any such broad, roomy thoroughfare as the Boston Post Road. On the contrary we were short-cutting through a narrow, rough lane, beset by stone walls and interrupted at intervals by a series of sharp and treacherous angles.

I know I shall never forget the momentary impression I received. Out of the golden sunlight, it seemed to me, there had emerged suddenly a tableau of Queen Titania on a topaz throne—the fairest Queen Titania imagination ever conjured—and I, in my mad, panting speed was about to crash into the gauzy fabric of that dream creation and rend it with brutal, torturing onrush of relentless, hard-driven nickel steel. I take no credit to myself for what I did. Volition was absent. My hands acted on an impulse above and beyond all tardy mental guidance. For just a flashing instant the gray nose of my car rose before me, as in strenuous assault it mounted half way to the coping of the roadside wall. I felt my seat dart away from beneath me, was conscious of my body in swift, unsupported
aerial flight, and then—but it is idle
to attempt to set down the conglom-erate sensations of that small fraction of a second. When I regained consciousness, Queen Titania was kneeling in the dust of the lane beside me—
a very distressed and anxious Queen Titania, with wide, startled eyes, and quivering sympathetic lips—and about us were a half dozen on more of the vicinal country folk.

Between that meeting in mid-May and this meeting on the old Boston Post Road in mid-September, there had been others, of course; for Queen Titania, whose every-day name, as I have said, was Evelyn Grayson, was the niece and ward of my nearest neighbor, Mr. Robert Cameron, a gentleman recently come to reside on what for a century and more had been known as the old Townsbury Estate, extending for quite a mile along the Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound in the neighborhood of Greenwich.

The intervening four months had witnessed the gradual growth of a near approach to intimacy between Cameron and myself as was possible considering the manner of man that Cameron was. By which statement I mean to imply naught to my neighbor's discredit. He was in all respects admirable—a gentleman of education and culture, widely traveled, of exalted ideals and noble principles to which he gave rigid adherence. But—I was about to qualify this by describing him as reserved and taciturn. I fear, though, to give a wrong impression.
He was scarcely that. There were

"Cascarets" For A Sick, Sour Stomach

Gently But Thoroughly Cleanse and Regulate Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels While You Sleep.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately
cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—
a 10-cent box from any drug store
will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

A QUICK RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Treatment Relieves All Distressing Symptoms.

Do you suffer for weeks every Summer with Hay Fever or Rose Cold? If you do, just get a fifty cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist, and see how quickly
you will get relief. In five minutes after applied that stuffed-up feeling in the head will be gone, the pain and soreness in the back of the throat relieved, and the sneezing and running at the nose stopped.

Moreover, this remedy does not simply give you temporary relief, but heals and strengthens the weakened, inflamed membranes lining of the nose and throat, making it less sensitive to dust, dampness and certain odors, which generally bring on the fits of sneezing and weeping.

Don't suffer any longer, and don't experiment with strong snuffs, powders and sprays which aggravate the trouble, but try this simple, sensible treatment. If you are not satisfied after fair trial, your druggist will give back your money.

moments, however, when he was unresponsive, and he was never demonstrative. He had more poise than any man I know. He allowed you to see just so much of him, and no more. At times he was almost stubbornly reti-cent. And yet, in spite of these qualities, which appeared to be cultivated rather than inherent, he gave repeated evidence of a nature at once so simple and kindly and sympathetic as to command both confidence and affection.

To the progress of my intimacy with Evelyn there had been no such temperamental impediment. She was fearlessly outspoken, with a frankness
born of unspoiled innocence; barely six weeks having elapsed between her graduation from the tiny French convent of Sainte Barbe near Paris and our perilous encounter in that contracted, treacherous, yet blessed little Connecticut lane. And she possessed, moreover, a multiplicity of additional charms, both of person and disposition—charms too numerous indeed to enumerate, and far too sacred to discuss. From which it may rightly be inferred that we understood each other, Evelyn and I, and that we were already considerably beyond the state or condition of mere formal acquaintance.

It was no Queen Titania who now came gliding to a stand beside me on the broad, level, well-oiled highway, under a double row of arching elms. It was no gossamer fairy, but Hebe, the Goddess of Youth, with creamy skin and red lips and a lilting melody of voice.

"What ho, Sir Philip! We are well met!"

And then she told me that her Uncle
Robert had telephoned for me, leaving a message with my man, bidding
me come to him at my earliest leisure.
"Why not come for dinner?" she added; and her eyes gave accent to her words.

"But you?" I queried; for her car was headed in the opposite direction.
I am going alone to Norton. I have a hamper in the tonneau for that poor O'Malley family. I shall be back in time. We dine at half-past seven, you know. You'll come?"

"Of course I'll come," I answered
her. I think she must have heard more in my voice than the simple words, for her lids drooped, for just a breath, and the color flamed sudden below her lowered lashes.

But, after all, I saw very little of her that evening. It is true that she sat on my right at table, piquantly, youthfully beautiful in the softly tinted light which filtered through the pink and silver filigree candle-shades,
but the atmosphere of the dinner was tinged by a vague, unreasoning constraint as from some ominously brooding yet undefinable influence which overbore the three of us. And when the coffee and liqueurs were served, employing some slender pretext for her going, she bade us good-night, and left us, not to return.

In justice to Cameron, I must add that he appeared least affected by—
and certainly in no wise responsible for—the pervading infestivity. He had been, indeed, rather less demure than was often his wont, chatting with almost gaily concerning Evelyn's new role of Lady Bountiful and of her Norton beneficiaries. As for the subject upon which he desired to consult me, it had not been so much as mentioned; so in looking back, it seems impossible that matters of which neither Evelyn nor I was at the time informed could have exerted an effect,
save through Cameron's undetected,
subconscious inducement.

Even after his niece had withdrawn, Cameron continued for a time to discuss with me topics of general and public, rather than personal, import. He spoke, I remember, of a series of articles on "The Commercial Resources of the United States," the publication of which had just begun
in The Week, of which I am owner and editor; and though I fancied at first that it might be in this connection he wished to consult me, I very soon discerned that he was merely using a statement contained therein
as a text for certain views of his own
on the conservation and development of the country's timber supply.

I go thus into what may seem uninteresting detail, partly that I may give a hint as to the character of Cameron's mind, but more especially to indicate how lightly he would have had me think he regarded that for which he sought me.

Meanwhile my curiosity grew keener. It was natural, I suppose, that I should fancy Evelyn involved in some way. In fact I then attributed the depression during dinner to her knowledge of what her uncle and guardian purposed to say to me. Likewise I found in this conception the reason for her sudden and unusual desertion.
Hitherto when I had dined here Evelyn had remained with us while we smoked our cigarettes, leading us at length to the music room, where for a glad half-hour the rich melody of her youthful sweet contralto voice mingled in pleasing harmony with her own piano accompaniment.

And while I vainly made effort to imagine wherein I might have laid myself open to the disapproval of this most punctilious of guardians—for I expected nothing less than a studiously polite reference to some shortcoming of which I had been unwittingly guilty—I momentarily lost track of my host's discourse. Emerging from my abstraction it was with a measure of relief that I heard him saying:

"I think you told me once, Clyde,
that you rather prided yourself on your ability to get a line on one's character from his handwriting. That's why I telephoned for you this afternoon. I have received an anonymous letter."

There was an all too apparent assumption of nonchalance in his manner of expression to deceive even the least observant, of which I am not
one. The effect was to augment the seriousness of the revelation. I saw at once that he was more disquieted
than he would have me know.

He was leaning forward, a little constrainedly, his left hand gripping
the arm of his chair, the fingers of his right hand toying with the stem of his gold-rimmed Bohemian liqueur glass.

"An anonymous letter!" I repeated, with a deprecatory smile. "Anonymous
letters should be burned and forgotten. Surely you're not bothering about the writer?"

I wish I could put before you an exact reproduction of Cameron's face as I then saw it; those rugged outlines,
the heritage of Scottish ancestry, softened and refined by a brilliant intellectual; the sturdy chin and square jaw; the heavy underlip meeting the upper in scarcely perceptible curve;
the broad, homely nose; the small,
but alert, gray eyes, shining through the round lenses of his spectacles; the high, broad, sloping, white brow and the receding border of dark brown, slightly grizzled hair. That, superficially, was the face. But I saw more than that. In the visage of one naturally brave I saw a battle waged behind a mask—a battle between courage and fear; and I saw fear win.

Then the mask became opaque once more, and Cameron, giving me smile
for smile, was replying.

"There are anonymous letters and anonymous letters. Ordinarily your method is the one I should pursue. Indeed I may say that when, about a month or so ago, I received a communication of that character, I did almost precisely what you now advise. Certainly I followed one-half of your prescription—I forgot the letter;
though, for lack of fire in the dog
days, I did not burn it, but thrust it into a drawer with an accumulation of advertising circulars."

My apprehension lest Evelyn and I were personally affected had been by now quite dissipated. It was perfectly apparent to me that Cameron alone was involved; yet my anxiety was none the less eager. Already my sympathy and co-operation were enlisted.
I could only hope that he had mentally exaggerated the gravity of the situation, yet my judgment of him was that his inclination would be to err
in the opposite direction.

"And now something has happened to recall it to your memory?"

A HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR

A Little Sage and Sulphur
Makes Gray Hair Vanish—A Remedy for All Hair Troubles.

Who does not know the value of Sage
and Sulphur for keeping the hair dark,
soft and glossy and in good condition?
As a matter of fact, Sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than Sage and Sulphur, if properly prepared.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put out an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, in which Sage and Sulphur are combined with other valuable remedies for keeping the hair and scalp in clean, healthy condition.

If your hair is losing its color or constantly coming out, or if you are troubled with dandruff or dry, itchy scalp, get a fifty cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist,
use it according to the simple directions,

No More Gray Or Faded Hair

Women and men who use PARIS-IAN SAGE can be sure their hair will never turn gray.

PARISIAN SAGE will preserve the natural color of the hair; stop it
from becoming faded and lifeless,
and by nourishing the hair root give to the hair a lustre and radiance that compels admiration.

PARISIAN SAGE stops, falling hair; banishes dandruff; makes the scalp clean and free from itchiness
and promotes a growth of heavy hair.

after its receipt," he replied. "Something very puzzling. But in spite of that, I was inclined to treat the matter
as a bit of clever chicanery, devised
for the purpose, probably, of extortion.
As such, I again put it from my thoughts; but today I received a second letter, and I admit I am interested. The affair has features which make it, indeed, uncommonly perplexing."

I fear my imagination was sluggish.
Although, in spite of his dissemblance,
I saw that he was strangely moved by these happenings, I could fancy no very terrifying concomitants of the rather commonplace facts he had narrated. For anonymous letters I had ever held scant respect. An ambushed enemy, I argued, is admittedly a coward. And so I was in danger of growing impatient.

"When the second letter came," he continued, bringing his left hand forward to join his right on the dazzling
white ground of the table's damask, "I searched among the circulars for the first, and found it. I want you to see them both. The writing is very curious—I have never seen anything just like it—and the signature, if I may call it that, is still more singular. On the first letter, I took it for a blot. But on the second letter occurs the same black blur or smudge of identical outline."

Of course I thought of the Black Hand. It was the natural corollary, seeing that the newspapers had been giving us a surfeit of Black Hand threats and Black Hand outrages. But, somehow, I did not dare to voice it.
To have suggested anything so ordinary to Cameron in his present mood
would have been to offer him offense.

And when, at the next moment, he drew from an inner pocket of his evening coat two thin, wax-like sheets of paper and passed them to me, I was glad that I had kept silence. For the letters were no rough, rude scrawls of an illiterate Mafia or Camorra. In phraseology as well as in penmanship they were impressively unique.

"If you don't mind," Cameron was saying, "you might read them aloud."

He rose and switched on a group of electric wall lights at my back, and I marked for the hundredth time his physique—his towering height, his powerful shoulders, his leanness of hip and sturdy straightness of limb.
He did not look the forty years to which he confessed.

One of the long French windows which gave upon the terrace stood ajar, and before resuming his seat Cameron paused to close it, dropping over it the looped curtains of silver gray velvet that matched the walls.

In the succeeding moment the room was ghostly silent; and then, breaking against the stillness, was the sound of my voice, reading:

DAINTY NOVELTIES SURE TO PLEASE THE RECIPIENT.

Clever Needlewoman Never Need Be at a Loss for a Suitable Present—
More Pleasing When Made
by Hand.

A gift that is made by hand is always twice as valuable as one that is bought, and so many dainty novelties
are seen now that offer suggestions for needlewomen that no one need be at a loss as to what to make for the traveler or the girl graduate or the bride of these summer days.

To begin with the woman who is going away—there are so many gifts
one hardly knows where to start, but one of the nicest is a set of "dress envelopes" for her trunk.

These envelopes are made of heavy linen, the shape copied from any envelope, and they should be the size of the trunk. At least a half dozen may be made, bound with ribbon and worked with a monogram, and then into them may be slipped the traveler's prettiest frocks, keeping them from ever coming in contact with the other things in the trunk.

Sometimes these envelopes are simply doubled sheets of bristol board or heavy cardboard, covered with linen and tied together with ribbon.

Another nice gift to make for the traveler is a set of bags for her shoes, or a case lined with oiled silk for her toilet articles.

For a bride-to-be the gifts are also infinite in number and variety. A half dozen little guest towels marked with cross-stitch designs, sachet pads for the chest in which her trousseau is kept, anything in the way of household linen marked with her monogram,
and also any bit of hand-made lingeries you may select.

Nothing very new, you say. Well, perhaps not, but they will be new and wonderful to the girl wrapped in her dreams of future and present happiness.

For the girl graduate there are many presents easily made. One of these is a pretty case of kodak pictures made from long strips of linen fastened together, the inner strip being made with "buttonholes" wide enough for the pictures at intervals
both top and bottom.

These may then be folded over and over and tied with ribbons, the girl's monogram and the date being worked on the outside edge.

Another novel and attractive gift is a set of collars, cuffs, a jabot, a belt and a hat band, all of hand-worked linen, edged perhaps with tiny frills of lace, white another nice gift for either bride or girl graduate is a set of aprons—a work apron, an embroidery apron—being half way up to form a huge pocket for work), a chafing dish apron and a garden apron
—all made by hand and embroidered
with the girl's monogram.

SMART OUTDOOR SUMMER HAT

New Colors.
There are two new colors this season in wall papers—apricot and "malachite" or "water" green. Both colors are beautiful, but while the apricot is suitable for backgrounds the green
can be used only in small quantities.
The apricot is the color so frequently seen in old Chinese rugs. The green is a very soft blue green. The word
"malachite" describes it as well as it can be described. It is the color one sees frequently on the crest of a wave. The grays are particularly soft and lovely this year.—Harper's Bazar.

Stronger Chiffon Sleeves.
With the increasing desire for sheer sleeves and yokes an excellent chiffon
has been substituted by the makers for that perilous quality which gave way with the slightest suggestion of wear. This is more readily found in black, white, and flesh color, and will undoubtedly bring joy to the heart of the woman who has longed for but bravely denied herself the luxury of chiffon sleeves.—Harper's Bazar.

HAVING DESIGNS ON THE CAPITAL

Rebels Concentrating for Attack On Mexico City.

TO JOIN THE ZAPATISTAS

Combination of the Two Forces of Those Who Are in Rebellion Against Madero Government, It is Believed, Would Put in Field a Real Army of No Fewer Than 10,000 Men, Who Could Seriously Menace the Capital.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The belief held here, in view of the developments of the last twenty-four hours, is that the Mexican rebels are striking their final blows along the border preparatory to moving south.

According to war department information, Generals Rojas and Campa, with about 1,000 men, have already started their march south. They have destroyed a great deal of railroad property, it is said, for the sole reason that they wish to make it impossible for the approaching federals to pursue them. Threats have been made that all the railway bridges south of Naco and Del Rio, Tex., would be dynamited.

It is believed that the total rebel force when the present concentration is complete will total about 3,000 men. The prediction is confidently made here that they have no other purpose than that of effecting a juncture with the Zapatistas in Durango and Zacatecas. If this union of forces were accomplished it is believed the rebels would then have a real army of at least 10,000 men, with which they could menace Mexico City itself.

The situation at Cananea has been relieved by the arrival of reinforcements, bringing the federal garrison up to more than 500 men. No further anxiety is felt for the American colony there.

According to the information received at the war department, the federals succeeded in preventing the capture of Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Tex., by the rebels. The latter lost four killed in the fighting.

Lawlessness is increasing in the south of Mexico, the state department is informed. The conditions are growing worse in Guanajuato and Michoacan. Manuel Beltancourt, an American mining manager in the state of Guerrero, has been severely and perhaps fatally wounded by insurgents. Another American, James D. Burt, in Vera Cruz, killed one of an attacking party which brutally assaulted members of his family.

Several Americans engaged in business or mining in Mexico have been visitors to the war and state departments. Most of them regard the Mexican situation as absolutely hopeless. They declare that the Madero government is weak and vacillating and that the president is surrounded by a clique, each member of which is exceedingly jealous of everyone else. Not until the Mexican people find in themselves sufficient real patriotism to go out and put down the revolutionary disorders will peace be restored in the republic, say these Americans.

MAKING THREATS

Mexican Rebels Highly Incensed at Our Government's Action.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 12.—Incensed at the action of the United States in permitting Mexican federal troops to cross American territory to engage them, the Mexican rebels under Rojas, Salazar and several lesser commanders, are threatening to shoot Douglass, Ariz., to pieces and kill every American they can reach. General Rojas sent word that he would attack Agua Prieta, opposite Douglass, if it did not surrender within twenty-four hours. The federal commander of Agua Prieta at once wired to Juarez for reinforcements, and General Huerta ordered General Sanjinas and 500 men, mostly Yaqui Indians, to entrain and go, through United States territory, to the relief of the beleaguered garrison. Rojas is highly incensed because the Cananea Americans have asked for arms. He declared that if any Americans take part in the defense of any town attacked by rebels, it will be a signal for all Americans to be treated as enemies and slaughtered indiscriminately.

SENATOR HEYBURN

Idaho Notable Who Is Reported Critically Ill.

STEFANSSON MUST SHOW NORWEGIANS

They Look Askance at Report of White Eskimos.

Christiania, Sept. 12.—Prof. Stefansson's alleged discovery of white Eskimos in the Arctic has created skepticism here. Dr. Stefansson has heretofore not been regarded here as an authority on such matters, and Dr. Skatnum, the ethnologist, thinks the report needs elucidation.

Norwegian explorers and ethnologists, including Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, long ago reported seeing Eskimos who possessed some of the characteristics of the north German type both in Arctic America and Greenland.

It is generally assumed that Norwegian emigrants mingled with the Eskimos and became amalgamated, but the existence of whole tribes of a northern European type is regarded as very improbable.

HIS LAST FLIGHT

Paul Peck Is the Latest Victim of the Lure of the Air.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Before a crowd of more than 1,000 persons, Aviator Paul Peck, twenty-two years old, holder of the American duration record, fell 200 feet to the ground while giving an exhibition late yesterday afternoon on Cicero field and received injuries from which he died a few hours later.

Peck was descending to earth after a short flight when his biplane was caught squarely by a gust of wind, causing the machine to tip sharply downward and then fall in a heap. He was taken to a hospital, and there it was found that both legs and arms were broken, his skull and ribs fractured, and that he had suffered severe internal injuries.

Roosevelt's Reception at Portland.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 12.—Colonel Roosevelt received a rousing reception in Oregon. When he left his car at Portland he walked over a rose-carpeted platform to the waiting automobile which took him through lines of cheering spectators to the Oregon hotel, where he breakfasted with the Progressive committee, and was then driven through the city. Thousands crowded the sidewalks, cheering him madly as he passed. His principle speech was made at a tremendous meeting.

All Were Once Slang.

If we had never allowed slang to legitimize itself in orthodox language where should we be today? A reference to old slang dictionaries gives the answer. Take Grose's, published at the end of the eighteenth century—the "Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue," by the first lexicographer who recognized the word "slang" itself. We find him classing under it such words as bay window, bedizened, bet, bluster, budget, brogue, capon, grouse, churl, cox, cobbler, cur, domineer, eyesore, flabby, flog, flout, foundling, fues, gag malingering, messmate, slump, saunter, sham, rascal, trip and yelp. Wait until next the anti-slang purist uses one of these words and then confound him by reference to Grose.

Said No, But Was Nice About It.

At a meeting of business men a discussion was started regarding a banker who has the reputation for hard bargaining, close fistiness and invariably getting his pound of flesh. "Oh, well," said one man, "he isn't so bad. I went to him to get a loan of $5,000 and he treated me very courteously." "Did he lend you the money?" was asked. "No," was the reply, "he didn't. But he hesitated a minute before he refused."

"That which you have wrought shall in turn be wrought upon you. Take warning therefore of what shall happen on the seventh day hence. As sun follows sun, so follows all that is decreed. The ways of our God are many. On the righteous He showers blessings; on the evil He pours misery."

Chicago, yesterday posted the customary warning to aviators against going up, but Col. Peck, believing his small biplane would be fast enough to carry him through the choppy wind, went into the air in spite of the caution. The week before he sailed here, Col. Peck made flights daily at Coney Island, Cincinnati, where the most intrepid aviators, including Curtis, had refused to ascend because of the treacherous air currents.

Peck would have escaped with minor injuries, it was declared, had it not been for the fact that the heavy engine, crashing through the framework with its gasoline tank and iron fittings, struck Peck in the neck and across the chest.

Peck is American Licensed Aviator No. 57, and had developed a monoplane and the biplane in which he was so badly injured. The biplane was only 26 feet span, headless and was equipped with a gyro motor.

While the Wright brothers and Glenn H. Curtiss are wholly recognized as the fathers of American biplanes, young Peck has the distinction of developing the first all-American monoplane.

Embracing a number of new and ingenious features, his machine could not fairly be characterized as a copy of anything. Instead it is a combination of ideas for which Mr. Peck alone has been given the credit.

On May 24 of this year he further distinguished himself by breaking the American duration record, formerly held by Howard Gill, and established a mark of 4 hours 23 minutes and 15 seconds.

Col. Peck has been operating aeroplanes only a little more than a year. He took up aviation at College Park, Md., near Washington, and showed much aptitude in the science. In nine days he had mastered the running of a biplane under the tutelage of Aviator Rex Smith.

This is believed to be a record for passing the test. He did much flying at College Park, and last winter went with the United States Army aviators to Augusta, Ga., flying there during the season. Since that time he had done exhibition flying in several States.

Col. Peck was 24 years old. While he made his home in Washington, his parents live in West Virginia. His young wife died in Washington last April after a transfusion of blood from her husband had been made in an attempt to save her life.

To officers of the United States Army Aviation Corps Peck's plunge came as a shock as he was known to have been a very careful aviator.

Peck had promised his mother and sisters to give up flying upon his return to Washington from the West. News of the accident was communicated to Miss Bertie Peck, a sister, to Peck's parents at Sullivan, W. Va. Paul Peck, Jr., a five-months-old son of the aviator, resides in Washington with his maternal grandmother.

in the tabernacle meetings. The prayer circle among the girls at the high school has been the means of bringing many to Christ, and her real love for the work in which she is engaged is the secret of her success in the work.

Another place of Miss Marshall's work, and yet fully as important, is the Bible study class, meeting three afternoons each week, has come to be a means of help to those who desire to know the word of God and how to use it in doing personal work.

Many have wondered why Miss Marshall would choose the work she has, when her home offers her a life of comparative ease and social distinction, but this only proves that to those who have tried it, the joy, the happiness and satisfaction of doing work for Christ is greater than that derived from any other source, no matter how great the possibilities of a social or professional life.

MAPLE MAKES LONG JUMP AND WINS

Rushville Trainer Drives Race at Terre Haute One Day and at Ft. Wayne Next.

ONES AND DAGLER IN MONEY

After driving Lady Maude C. to a good position in the summary of the three-year-old trot in Terre Haute Tuesday, Clell Maple of this city rushed to Fort Wayne Wednesday, where he won a race in straight heats with Nellie Gray, a gray mare belonging to a Columbus man. John Dagler and Harrie Jones also finished well up in the money at Fort Wayne yesterday.

Nellie Gray won the 2:16 trot by outdistancing the field in each heat. The time by heats was 2:12 1/4, 2:12 1/2 and 2:12 1/4. She got in the money at the State fair, but not near so well up.

Harrie Jones, driving Katherine R., pushed Derby Boy to win the feature race on the program yesterday, a brewery thousand dollar stake event, in which Katherine R. finished second each of the three heats. She threatened to be dangerous each heat but could not forge ahead. The time was 2:12 1/4, 2:14 1/2 and 2:12 1/4.

Ruth Randall, John Dagler's trotter, and Capitola, were to fight it out for first money in the 2:18 trot today. The race was unfinished yesterday, Ruth Randall winning the first two heats and Capitola the last two. Three heats were in 2:14 1/4 and he fourth in 2:15 1/4.

Curt Gosnell won the 2:18 trot with F. A. L. at Fairmount, W. Va., yesterday. Best time, 2:17 1/4.

DEATH IS RESULT OF AUTO MISHAP

nineteen years in different positions. He was operator, train dispatcher and passenger conductor for short intervals and he was agent of the Shelbyville station for fourteen years.

At length he struck his gut in a line for which he was especially well qualified, the manufacture of furniture, a business which largely contributed to the prosperity of Shelbyville. In 1900, in connection with Frank D. Blanchard and Jacob A. Cooney, Mr. Campbell organized a corporation for the purpose of making furniture.

In 1876, he was married to Lucinda H. Harding, and six children were born: Ada L., now the wife of Will Smith; Margaret M., wife of Fred S. Baggie, former editor of the Shelbyville Republican; Ruth, Florence, Stanley and George Campbell, the latter being in New Mexico. His first wife died in 1899 and in September, 1900, he was married to Angeline Gowels. After this union, one son was born.

Good Shoes Are An Insurance Against a Good Many Ills

A list of illnesses that may be traced to poor shoes—to the improper protection of the feet—would be startling long. Any doctor could rattle off a whole catalogue of them—and could tell you that poor shoes improperly fitted send to him a large proportion of his patients. Good shoes, properly fitted, therefore, are a form of Health Insurance more important than you ever imagined. Our New Fall Foster Shoes for Women are in, and we want you to see and try them on.
